Presence of 2nd Mustang Enters King Murder Case

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The presence of a second white Mustang near the doorway which police say the slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., used to escape gave rise today to published reports that it may have been the getaway car.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal said the car with Arkansas tags and a similar vehicle, parked a short distance north, both left the scene within 15 minutes after King was fatally shot a week ago today.

Both vehicles were within 100 feet of the doorway to the second-floor rooming house where police said the assassin waited and shot King as he stood on the balcony of a motel across a rear street.

The killer was believed to have walked out of the Main Street entrance to the rooming house, turned south and dropped the murder weapon in front of a business firm next door.

Guy Canipe, owner of the firm, said he saw the young white man drop the package which contained the gun, but did not see his face.

The Commercial Appeal speculated that the man then walked a few steps farther along, got into the dirty white Mustang with Arkansas tags and sped away.

The second Mustang, parked north of the rooming house entrance, also left the scene near the time of the shooting.

Police said they would investigate reports that a supposed police chase in northeast Memphis—eight miles from the scene—30 minutes after the shooting may have been a decoy to allow the killer to escape.

A recording of the police radio dispatcher's transmissions showed seven calls in 12 minutes from a lieutenant's car in the northeast section of the city detailing the case.

The lieutenant said Tuesday he did not make the calls. This led to speculation that someone other than police may have sent the calls on the police frequency to draw officers away from the escape route.

Violence Ebbs In Major Cities; Death Toll 39

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five Negroes died during a second night of racial violence in Kansas City but elsewhere there were only scattered and sporadic incidents as the nation's troubled cities edged back toward normalcy.

The deaths raised to 39 the national toll in the wave of rioting and disorders that followed the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. one week ago today.

All of the Kansas City victims were shot to death. Some apparently were caught in the cross-fire that flared at times between snipers and police supported by National Guardsmen.

More than 75 fires of incendiary origin were reported. At least 20 persons, including two guardsmen, were injured, and police and guard troops battled snipers shooting from rooftop vantage points and from moving cars. Sixty persons were arrested.

In Newark city officials imposed a limited curfew for the early morning hours in a small section of the city. There were scattered reports of looting but otherwise the city remained calm.

The officials said the midnight to 6 a.m. curfew was ordered after several hundred Negro youths gathered on blocks near where a row of stores had gone up in flames earlier in the evening.

A total of 47,000 National Guardsmen remained committed to riot control duty in 15 states and the District of Columbia. There were also 20,000 federal troops in Washington, Chicago and Baltimore.

The nation's capital passed its first business day without major incident. It was expected the 14,000 troops would be released soon from their patrol duties which already have been reduced.

Mayor Walter E. Washington said the curfew would be further eased if the peace continues. Three days of violence beginning last Thursday took seven lives and left more than 1,000 persons injured.

Soviet Craft Orbits Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government confirmed today that Luna 14 has gone into orbit around the moon.

The announcement by Tass, the Soviet news agency, gave no indication that any attempt would be made to bring the unmanned moon shot back to earth, something that is considered a necessary step toward putting a man on the moon but has never been done.

Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory reported Wednesday night that Luna 14 had apparently gone into orbit around the moon.

Luna 14 was sent up last Sunday.

Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley lifted the curfew for minors which was set Saturday and said the 11,900 federal troops and guardsmen may begin withdrawing from the city soon.

The decision, he said, will be made by "the superintendent of police and the military. I don't think we should put any time limit on it." Eleven persons were killed and some 300 injured during the two days of violence.

A dusk to dawn curfew was lifted in Pittsburgh but 4,173 guardsmen remained in the city with no immediate indication of when they would be withdrawn.

Authorities said there were 35 arrests and 41 fires reported during the day bringing the totals to 1,265 arrests and 515 fires since the trouble started.

ONG Armory To Be Sold By Sealed Bid

The Armory which houses Co. I of the 106th Infantry Division, Ohio National Guard, will go up for sale soon it was announced by ONG officials today.

The new headquarters for the guard which is being constructed near Tilton in Fairfield county is expected to be completed by late June or early July.

The old armory at 151 E. Franklin St. will be sold through sealed bids by the Director of Public Works. The department expects to advertise for two weeks beginning about June 5. The bids will be opened during the latter part of June at a date to be announced.

The director of public works reserves the right to refuse any or all bids.

BEFORE advertising, the building will be appraised by three disinterested appraisers. Although it is not mandatory, officials indicated that only bids less than two thirds the appraised value would probably be rejected.

The building will be ready for occupancy by its new tenants no later than Sept. 1, 1968.

Ferry Boat Death Toll 'Only' 52

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Police said today 46 bodies have been recovered from the ferry Wahine and only six persons are still missing.

This sharply reduced earlier police estimates that the dead might reach 100 or more.

The 8,944-ton ocean-going ferry hit a shoal just inside Wellington Harbor Wednesday during one of the worst storms in New Zealand's history and capsized six hours later a mile offshore. A total of 728 persons were aboard, 614 passengers and 114 crew, police said.

Marine Minister John Scott ordered a full investigation of the sinking. The view was growing in official circles that the ship hit the reef twice, the flooding resulting from the first grounding was successfully sealed off, but a second grounding coupled with the gale winds "and battering of the stormy seas shifted the cargo suddenly and capsized the ship."

See No Decrease In Property Values

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A population researcher says increased Negro population of a neighborhood doesn't decrease property values.

The Negro does not "invade" a neighborhood, says John M. McQuiston of University of Southern California's population research laboratory. The neighborhood "is bequeathed to him by the Caucasian who has moved on to newer and more desirable housing."

Property values don't begin their decline when Negroes arrive, McQuiston said Wednesday following a survey. "By then, that trend has already been long established."

McCarthy, Kennedy Clash Over Primary Significance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first head-on race between Democratic presidential candidates Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy comes in Indiana's May 7 primary—and they're already clashing over its significance.

"Indiana is the key primary," Kennedy told crowds in Fort Wayne and Columbus, Ind., Wednesday.

The New York senator said Indiana "may very well decide who's going to be the Democratic nominee—and very likely the next president of the United States."

But McCarthy, campaigning in Nebraska where the two senators also meet in a May 14 primary, didn't agree.

The Minnesota senator told newsmen Indiana may be more critical for Kennedy because it's his first. But he said the true test is the showing in all the primaries.

McCarthy claimed in Lincoln, Neb., later that his New Hampshire and Wisconsin primary victories "helped" President Johnson's decision to de-escalate the Vietnam war.

The senator drew long applause when he said the people have passed judgment on the war and Johnson has responded by declaring "this war must be brought to a close."

But Kennedy in Indiana repeated none of his earlier criticism of Johnson and did not attack the administration's war policy as he has in the past.

On the Republican side, backers encouraged by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's recent statements, have launched a Rockefeller-for-President Committee to promote a convention draft.

Rockefeller told a news conference Wednesday: "I have said I was available if the party wanted me. . . . I have not pulled out. I just never got into active candidacy."

While McCarthy was campaigning in Nebraska, he was winning in local primaries 115 of the 960 Connecticut state delegates who will select and instruct the state's 44 national convention delegates.

McCarthy drew about 45 per cent of the vote Wednesday in what was the closest thing Connecticut has to a presidential primary.

He was the only candidate with delegate slates pledged to him in all 30 local primaries.

Watson, Abrams Get Top Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has moved quickly to replace Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, first Cabinet casualty of his "lame duck" administration, while making official the expected appointment of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams as U.S. commander in Vietnam.

The President told White House newsmen Wednesday he had accepted O'Brien's resignation and had nominated W. Marvin Watson, now presidential appointments secretary, to fill the Cabinet post.

In addition to naming Abrams, 53, to take over for Gen. William C. Westmoreland when he becomes Army chief of staff in July, Johnson picked Adm. John S. McCain, 57, now commander of U.S. naval forces in Europe, to succeed retiring Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp as commander in chief, Pacific.

The military reshuffle also involved Johnson's naming of Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, now commander of the National War College in Washington and staff secretary to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, to succeed Abrams as deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam.

Johnson, who has said he won't seek or accept nomination for another term, took note of his "lame duck" status in announcing O'Brien's resignation.

He said that when the postmaster general spoke to him earlier in the day about resigning, he told O'Brien "that since I was not going to be a candidate for re-election, I realize the Cabinet had made many sacrifices . . . and that now was the time for any of them to make decisions concerning their families and their future."

Logan County Hog Shoot On Again

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Preparations were made at the John Shoots farm near here today for another protest hog slaughter by the National Farmers Organization.

Shoots told newsmen he expected only a "few" hogs to be shot and buried in a token slaughter, but NFO marketing chief Lawrence Sayne, said the aim was to have 1,000 head of hogs from 25 counties at the killing.

The NFO, in another protest aimed at forcing higher meat prices, had said it would kill the hogs unless a packer volunteered to process the animals so their meat could be distributed to the poor.

Sayne said from the NFO's Sabina headquarters today that no packer had been found before the Wednesday night deadline.

Southern Ohio NFO members have already slaughtered and buried 1,000 of their hogs as part of the nationwide economic battle. Northern Ohio NFO farmers donated 1,004 hogs to Cleveland's needy after a packer volunteered his services.

Vietnamese, U.S.

Rebel Casualties

SAIGON (AP) — The number of American troops killed in combat in Vietnam last week was the lowest in 2½ months, the U.S. Command announced today.

U.S. headquarters said 279 U.S. troops were killed in combat during the week that ended last Saturday at midnight. It was the lowest toll since the start of the Viet Cong's big lunar new year offensive on Jan. 29.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters said the drop reflected a lull in the fighting that has been developing for the past month. However, the number of U.S. wounded last week totaled 3,190, only 696 less than the week before, and the South Vietnamese command said its dead increased, from 393 the week before to 407 last week.

Enemy casualties also were considerable, although the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands could not agree on the

Rotary Fund For Safety Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A request to establish a rotary fund to implement random automobile inspection and other traffic activities authorized by the legislature comes before the state Controlling Board today.

The Highway Department asked approval to use $300,000 from the Highway Safety Fund to establish the rotary for the fourth quarter of the state's current bookkeeping year.

The legislature boosted driver license fees to $4 for three years and provided for 50 cents of that amount to go into the safety fund. The request for the rotary said if approved it would continue until the next legislature provided for regular funding.

Other requests on the board's agenda included $80,000 for Wright State University, Dayton, as the state's share of a $200,000 project to provide facilities for guests and a residence for the university president. The $120,000 balance would come from the Wright State University Foundation.

Women's Club To Be Judged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The General Federation of Women's Clubs with headquarters in Washington, D.C., said today it would send a national judging team to Miamisburg, Ohio, on Monday, April 15, to evaluate work of the Miamisburg Junior Women's Club in a $200,000 community improvement program.

The local club, the national organization said, stands to win up to $10,000 which must be used in further community improvement. The club is one of 10 finalists from entries throughout the nation. The judges will hear reports of local leaders in Miamisburg from 3:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Rhodes Heads Back to Florida

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes headed for Florida early today to complete a brief vacation with Mrs. Rhodes and their youngest daughter, Sharon. Racial disturbances caused him to interrupt his stay at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., last Monday. He arrived there with his family the previous Friday.

The governor's office said the family plans to return here Saturday.

GE Workers Vote Against Union Control

Efforts by United Electrical workers to gain union control of the Circleville General Electric Plant failed during an election Wednesday.

E. G. Grigg, local plant manager, announced today that the unofficial results of the NLRB representative election showed 490 votes in opposition to the union with 308 cast in favor of UE.

Over 90 per cent of eligible employees voted in the Wednesday balloting, Grigg said.

Official and final results will be certified at a later date by the NLRB office in Cincinnati, Grigg noted.

A union spokesman said today the local UE office would remain open here. However, another election cannot be held for one year.

Go-Go Girl To Become A Minister

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A pretty red-haired go-go dancer helps a minister conduct a special pre-dawn church service each Wednesday—and she plans to become a Methodist minister. Shapely Shirley Thomas, 24, says the Methodist services are for "night people", adding proudly that she herself is a "night person."

For six nights a week—from 9:30 p.m. until 2 a.m.—she dances at a local nightclub. She says she also was the first of the city's go-go performers to work with a bouncer.

She did the act, clad in a leopard-skin bikini and fig leaves, with the snake draped around her neck.

Shirley is a senior psychology major at Georgia State College with a B-plus average.

She also is quite serious about entering the ministry.

Two years ago, she was injured in a serious automobile accident. "If there was any one moment that changed my whole life, it was that wreck," she said. "I think it was then that I began to think about entering the ministry."

Miss Thomas has enrolled in the Candler School of Theology at Emory University for the fall quarter.

Passage of Civil Rights Bill Brings Call for More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional passage of landmark open-housing legislation has won applause from civil rights leaders along with renewed demands for massive federal attacks on shabby housing and unemployment in riot-prone slums.

A 250-171 House vote Wednesday sent to the White House a civil rights bill to outlaw discrimination in the sale or rental of 80 per cent of the nation's housing by 1970.

President Johnson said he would sign it into law as soon as possible.

The House action followed by a day the funeral of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, whose numerous campaigns often focused on open housing.

It also came after a week of widespread racial violence following King's assassination—and that was in that atmosphere that one Southerner explained why he voted for the bill.

"I think his bill is symbolic," explained Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La. "Either we move ahead as one people or we move toward a police state."

Johnson hailed passage of the bill but also urged Congress to enact the rest of his program, including housing and job programs.

After King's slaying, the President said he would address Congress to outline an expanded social program. But he postponed a scheduled appearance last Monday and has not set a new date.

The President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, which recommended a massive social program aimed at eradicating slum problems, scheduled an emergency session.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, commission vice chairman, said it's too late to help the people killed and wounded in the week of rioting but added: "It is not too late, however, for the nation to move against this crisis with the urgency and enterprise that the commission sought to generate."

Lindsay didn't specify when the meeting would be held, nor did he say what further moves would be made to win acceptance for its recommendations. But he said that as a beginning, the Senate should restore funds for summer programs in slums.

The Senate moved in that direction Wednesday, rejecting a money bill from which the House had stripped $75 million for the job program and $25 million for the Head Start preschool program.

Joining in praise for the open-housing measure and in the call for more congressional action on job and housing programs were George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, Dore Schary, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, and The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Robert C. Weaver, secretary of housing and urban development and a Negro, said Johnson's pending housing bill provides the way to build six million low- and moderate-income homes in 10 years. The riot commission wants this accomplished in five years.

But Roy Innis, associate national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, called the open-housing bill a "hoax against black people." What is needed more for the Negro community is a program for building and ownership of good housing in slum areas, he said.

McCarthy, Kennedy Clash Over Primary Significance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first head-on race between Democratic presidential candidates Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy comes in Indiana's May 7 primary—and they're already clashing over its significance.

"Indiana is the key primary," Kennedy told crowds in Fort Wayne and Columbus, Ind., Wednesday.

The New York senator said Indiana "may very well decide who's going to be the Democratic nominee—and very likely the next president of the United States."

But McCarthy, campaigning in Nebraska where the two senators also meet in a May 14 primary, didn't agree.

The Minnesota senator told newsmen Indiana may be more critical for Kennedy because it's his first. But he said the true test is the showing in all the primaries.

McCarthy claimed in Lincoln, Neb., later that his New Hampshire and Wisconsin primary victories "helped" President Johnson's decision to de-escalate the Vietnam war.

The senator drew long applause when he said the people have passed judgment on the war and Johnson has responded by declaring "this war must be brought to a close."

But Kennedy in Indiana repeated none of his earlier criticism of Johnson and did not attack the administration's war policy as he has in the past.

On the Republican side, backers encouraged by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's recent statements, have launched a Rockefeller - for-President Committee to promote a convention draft.

Rockefeller told a news conference Wednesday: "I have said I was available if the party wanted me. ... I have not pulled out. I just never got into active candidacy."

While McCarthy was campaigning in Nebraska, he was winning in local primaries 115 of the 960 Connecticut state delegates who will select and instruct the state's 44 national convention delegates. McCarthy drew about 45 per cent of the vote Wednesday in what was the closest thing Connecticut has to a presidential primary.

He was the only candidate with delegate slates pledged to him in all 30 local primaries.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has moved quickly to replace Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, first Cabinet casualty of his "lame duck" administration, while making official the expected appointment of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams as U.S. commander in Vietnam.

The President told White House newsmen Wednesday he had accepted O'Brien's resignation and had nominated W. Marvin Watson, now presidential appointments secretary, to fill the Cabinet post.

In addition to naming Abrams, 53, to take over for Gen. William C. Westmoreland when he becomes Army chief of staff in July, Johnson picked Adm. John S. McCain, 57, now commander of U.S. naval forces in Europe, to succeed retiring Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp as commander in chief, Pacific.

The military reshuffle also involved Johnson's naming of Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, now commandant of the National War College in Washington and staff secretary to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, to succeed Abrams as deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam.

Johnson, who has said he won't seek or accept nomination for another term, took note of his "lame duck" status in announcing O'Brien's resignation.

He said that when the postmaster general spoke to him earlier in the day about resigning, he told O'Brien "that since I was not going to be a candidate for re-election, I realize the Cabinet had made many sacrices ... and that now was the time for any of them to make decisions concerning their families and their future."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preparations were made at the John F. Kennedy farm near here today for another protest hog slaughter by the National Farmers Organization.

Shoots told newsmen he expected only a "few" hogs to be shot and buried in a token slaughter, but NFO marketing chief Lawrence Sayne, said the aim was to have 1,000 head of hogs from 25 counties at the killing.

The NFO, in another protest aimed at forcing higher meat prices, had said it would kill the hogs unless a packer volunteered to process the animals so their meat could be distributed to the poor.

Sayne said from the NFO's Sabina headquarters today that no packer had been found before the Wednesday night deadline.

Southern Ohio NFO members have already slaughtered and buried 1,000 of their hogs as part of the nationwide economic battle. Northern Ohio NFO farmers donated 1,004 hogs to Cleveland's needy after a packer volunteered his services.

Report 279 Americans Killed in Week

Vietnamese, U.S. Disagree Over Rebel Casualties

SAIGON (AP) — The number of American troops killed in combat in Vietnam last week was the lowest in 2½ months, the U.S. Command announced today.

U.S. headquarters said 279 U.S. troops were killed in combat during the week that ended last Saturday at midnight. It was the lowest toll since the start of the Viet Cong's big lunar new year offensive on Jan. 29.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters said the drop reflected a lull in the fighting that has been developing for the past month. However, the number of U.S. wounded last week totaled 3,190, only 696 less than the week before, and the South Vietnamese command said its dead increased, from 393 the week before to 407 last week.

Enemy casualties also were considerable, although the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands could not agree on the

Rotary Fund For Safety Is Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A request to establish a rotary fund to implement random automobile inspection and other traffic activities authorized by the legislature comes before the state Controlling Board today.

The Highway Department asked approval to use $300,000 from the Highway Safety Fund to establish the rotary for the fourth quarter of the state's current bookkeeping year.

The legislature boosted driver license fees to $4 for three years and provided for 50 cents of that amount to go into the safety fund. The request for the rotary said if approved it would continue until the next legislature provided for regular funding.

Other requests on the board's agenda included $80,000 for Wright State University, Dayton, as the state's share of a $200,000 project to provide facilities for guests and a residence for the university president. The $120,000 balance would come from the Wright State University Foundation.

Women's Club To Be Judged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The General Federation of Women's Clubs with headquarters in Washington, D.C., said today it would send a national judging team to Miamisburg, Ohio, on Monday, April 15, to evaluate work of the Miamisburg Junior Women's Club in a $200,000 community improvement program.

The local club, the national organization said, stands to win up to $10,000 which must be used in further community improvement. The club is one of 10 finalists from entries throughout the nation. The judges will hear reports of local leaders in Miamisburg from 3:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Rhodes Heads Back to Florida

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes headed for Florida early today to complete a brief vacation with Mrs. Rhodes and their youngest daughter, Sharon.

Racial disturbances caused him to interrupt his stay at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., last Monday. He arrived there with his family the previous Friday.

The governor's office said the family plans to return here Saturday.

Passage of Civil Rights Bill Brings Call for More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional passage of landmark open-housing legislation has won applause from civil rights leaders along with renewed demands for massive federal attacks on shabby housing and unemployment in riot-prone slums.

A 250-171 House vote Wednesday sent to the White House a civil rights bill to outlaw discrimination in the sale or rental of 80 per cent of the nation's housing by 1970.

President Johnson said he would sign it into law as soon as possible.

The House action followed by a day the funeral of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, whose numerous campaigns often focused on open housing.

It also came after a week of widespread racial violence following King's assassination—and it was in that atmosphere that one Southerner explained why he voted for the bill.

"I think his bill is symbolic," explained Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La. "Either we move ahead as one people or we move toward a police state."

Johnson hailed passage of the bill but also urged Congress to enact the rest of his program, including housing and job programs.

After King's slaying, the President said he would address Congress to outline an expanded social program. But he postponed a scheduled appearance last Monday and has not set a new date.

The President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, which recommended a massive social program aimed at eradicating slum problems, scheduled an emergency session.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, commission vice chairman, said it's too late to help the people killed and wounded in the week of rioting but added: "It is not too late, however, for the nation to move against this crisis with the urgency and enterprise that the commission sought to generate."

Lindsay didn't specify when the meeting would be held, nor did he say what further moves would be made to win acceptance for his recommendations. But he said that as a beginning, the Senate should restore funds for summer programs in slums.

The Senate moved in that direction Wednesday, rejecting a money bill from which the House had stripped $75 million for the job program and $25 million for the Head Start preschool program.

Joining in praise for the open-housing measure and in the call for more congressional action on job and housing programs were George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, Dore Schary, national chairman of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, and The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Robert C. Weaver, secretary of housing and urban development and a Negro, said Johnson's pending housing bill provides the way to build six million low- and moderate-income homes in 10 years. The riot commission wants this accomplished in five years.

But Roy Innis, associate national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, called the open-housing bill a "hoax against black people." What is needed more for the Negro community is a program for building and ownership of good housing in slum areas, he said.

Clifford Reports 24,500 Reservists Face Duty Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford today announced he is calling to active duty about 24,500 Army, Navy and Air Force reservists. About 10,000 will go to South Vietnam.

In his first full-dress news conference, the new defense secretary said that President Johnson intends at this time to limit U.S. forces in Vietnam to 549,500—representing an increase of 24,500 over the present ceiling.

Clifford linked this presidential decision to limit further U.S. deployment to another major decision "to turn over the major effort gradually to the South Vietnamese."

The new secretary, in office only six weeks, said the decision to move toward turning over the biggest part of the war effort to Vietnam has been made after months of consultations with the Vietnamese and took into account the Saigon government's decision to boost its forces by 135,000 men.

Clifford, who has played a major role in high-level government discussions leading to the peace moves, said that "after a halting start" messages are now going back and forth between the United States and the North Vietnamese. He described them as formal in tone. The new Pentagon chief said the 24,500 Army, Navy and Air Force reservists being called to duty for up to 24 months are in some 88 units.

"Each man will have a minimum of 30 days' notice before reporting," Clifford said.

Johnson in February called to active duty 14,787 air reservists in the wake of the North Korean seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

These men are still on active duty. None have gone overseas as yet.

The new call-up, in part to strengthen the depleted strategic reserve of crisis-ready troops in the United States, thus will bring the reserve mobilization to about 39,000.

Clifford did not indicate when the 10,000 newly called reservists will go to Vietnam.

He indicated that some of the other 14,500 who will be placed in the strategic reserve may be sent to Vietnam ultimately as individual replacements.

The shipment of the 10,000 will represent the first commitment of reservists to the Vietnam war.

Stock Rally Cools Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market simmered down considerably today. Blue chips made selective gains.

Gains and losses for the entire list were about even.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.71 at 895.34.

Trading proceeded at roughly half the turbulent pace of Wednesday when a new record of 20.41 million shares was posted. The approach of the three-day Easter weekend caused normal caution and evening-up of positions. The exchanges will close Good Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at $19.1 with industrials up 1., rails off .8 and utilities up .4. Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange as trading slackened from Wednesday's rate.

Valuable Art Out of Danger

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Many of the art works most seriously damaged in the floods of November 1966 were declared Wednesday almost totally out of danger of further harm.

Prof. Umberto Baldini, director of the restoration operation, said with help from foreign lands the restoration work has made impressive head.

The major problem immediately after the flood was to prevent further destruction to the water-soaked and mud-covered works from mold. Another danger was cracking of paint caused by unregulated drying.

The course, open to all area retail, wholesale and service personnel will be taught by Mr. Paul Shoemaker of the State Department of Distributive Education. Registration for the course may be completed by calling the Chamber of Commerce office. A $5 registration fee is required.

Report 279

(Continued from Page 1) figure. The Americans reported 2,251 enemy killed last week, the South Vietnamese reported 4,012. The reports of enemy dead from the two commands frequently differ, but usually not by that much.

Military spokesman said government troops had been very active, particularly in the Mekong Delta below Saigon, and had engaged the enemy in a number of small skirmishes.

One explanation for the higher number of American wounded was that despite the absence of major ground fighting, the enemy continued harassing attacks by artillery, rockets and mortars. Such attacks usually result in a high number of wounded from flying shrapnel.

In a special casualty report, the U.S. Command said 93 American troops were killed during the 76-day siege of Khe Sanh and 400 wounded troops were evacuated from the Marine combat base just below the demilitarized zone. The announcement did not give the number of wounded who did not have to be evacuated.

Meanwhile, the lull in the ground war continued, with no significant contact reported yet in the biggest allied offensive of the war, the sweep by 100,000 troops looking for an estimated 18,000-20,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in the 11 provinces around Saigon. The operation, named Complete Victory, is now in its fourth day.

Demo Chief Won't Back Anyone Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Chairman John M. Bailey is taking the lead in a strong movement among Democratic organization members to avoid pre-convention commitments to potential presidential nominees. If the movement spreads as indicated the Democrats could wind up in August with the kind of a wide-open convention politicians talk about but which seldom materializes.

Bailey said in a telephone interview that since President Johnson took himself out of consideration he intends to remain "absolutely neutral" in the nomination contest.

"I have a convention to run," he said. "And I am not going to take sides." Bailey indicated he expects to remain national chairman through the convention, after which the nominee usually picks his own man.

It is Bailey's stated intent to have the 44-vote Connecticut delegation, which presumably would have been behind Johnson, go to the Chicago convention uncommitted. He is state chairman as well as national chairman.

Man Breaks Into House For Shelter

James Tucker, 22, Detroit, Mich., was arrested by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Richard Clark about noon Wednesday after he was found sleeping in a vacant house on Route 752.

The house is owned by Van Roark, Lancaster. Mrs. Roark discovered the young man asleep in the house at 11 a.m. when she stopped to check the vacant home.

Tucker told Deputy Clark he broke into the home at about 3 a.m. in the morning because he was tired and wanted a sheltered place to sleep. He kicked the door in.

According to the deputy, Tucker had no money. He said he had left Detroit about two weeks ago and had been on the road since.

Deputy Clark indicated today that charges of breaking and entering will be filed against Tucker in Circleville Municipal Court.

Clifford Reports 24,500 Reservists Face Duty Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford today announced he is calling to active duty about 24,500 Army, Navy and Air Force reservists. About 10,000 will go to South Vietnam.

In his first full-dress news conference, the new defense secretary said that President Johnson intends at this time to limit U.S. forces in Vietnam to 549,500—representing an increase of 24,500 over the present ceiling.

Clifford linked this presidential decision to limit further U.S. deployment to another major decision "to turn over the major effort gradually to the South Vietnamese."

The new secretary, in office only six weeks, said the decision to move toward turning over the biggest part of the war effort to Vietnam has been made after months of consultations with the Vietnamese and took into account the Saigon government's decision to boost its forces by 135,000 men.

Clifford, who has played a major role in high-level government discussions leading to the peace moves, said that "after a halting start" messages are now going back and forth between the United States and the North Vietnamese. He described

Stock Rally Cools Down

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market simmered down considerably today. Blue chips made selective gains.

Gains and losses for the entire list were about even.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.71 at 895.34.

Trading proceeded at roughly half the turbulent pace of Wednesday when a new record of 20.41 million shares was posted. The approach of the three-day Easter weekend caused normal caution and evening-up of positions. The exchanges will close Good Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .2 at 319.1 with industrials up 1, rails off .8 and utilities up .4.

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange as trading slackened from Wednesday's rate.

Valuable Art Out of Danger

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Many of the art works most seriously damaged in the floods of November 1966 were declared Wednesday almost totally out of danger of further harm.

Prof. Umberto Baldini, director of the restoration operation, said with help from foreign lands the restoration work has made impressive speed.

The major problem immediately after the flood was to prevent further destruction to the water-soaked and mud-covered works from mold. Another danger was cracking of paint caused by unregulated drying.

them as formal in tone.

The new Pentagon chief said the 24,500 Army, Navy and Air Force reservists being called to duty for up to 24 months are in some 88 units.

"Each man will have a minimum of 30 days' notice before reporting," Clifford said.

Johnson in February called to active duty 14,787 air reservists in the wake of the North Korean seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

These men are still on active duty. None have gone overseas as yet.

The new call-up, in part to strengthen the depleted strategic reserve of crisis-ready troops in the United States, thus will bring the reserve mobilization to about 39,000.

Clifford did not indicate when the 10,000 newly called reservists will go to Vietnam.

He indicated that some of the other 14,500 who will be placed in the strategic reserve may be sent to Vietnam ultimately as individual replacements.

The shipment of the 10,000 will represent the first commitment of reservists to the Vietnam war.

figure. The Americans reported 2,251 enemy killed last week, the South Vietnamese reported 4,012. The reports of enemy dead from the two commands frequently differ, but usually not by that much.

Military spokesman said government troops had been very active, particularly in the Mekong Delta below Saigon, and had engaged the enemy in a number of small skirmishes.

One explanation for the higher number of American wounded was that despite the absence of major ground fighting, the enemy continued harassing attacks by artillery, rockets and mortars. Such attacks usually result in a high number of wounded from flying shrapnel.

In a special casualty report, the U.S. Command said 93 American troops were killed during the 76-day siege of Khe Sanh and 400 wounded troops were evacuated from the Marine combat base just below the demilitarized zone. The announcement did not give the number of wounded who did not have to be evacuated.

Meanwhile, the lull in the ground war continued, with no significant contact reported yet in the biggest allied offensive of the war, the sweep by 100,000 troops looking for an estimated 18,000-20,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in the 11 provinces around Saigon. The operation, named Complete Victory, is now in its fourth day.

Demo Chief Won't Back Anyone Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Chairman John M. Bailey is taking the lead in a strong movement among Democratic organization members to avoid pre-convention commitments to potential presidential nominees.

If the movement spreads as indicated the Democrats could wind up in August with the kind of a wide-open convention politicians talk about but which seldom materializes.

Bailey said in a telephone interview that since President Johnson took himself out of consideration he intends to remain "absolutely neutral" in the nomination contest.

"I have a convention to run," he said, "and I am not going to take sides." Bailey indicated he expects to remain national chairman through the convention, after which the nominee usually picks his own man.

It is Bailey's stated intent to have the 44-vote Connecticut delegation, which presumably would have been behind Johnson, go to the Chicago convention uncommitted. He is state chairman as well as national chairman.

Lawmakers Clear Obstacles to Organ Transplants

The Circleville Herald, Thur. April 11, 1968 3
Circleville, Ohio

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Lawmakers in a half-dozen states have acted to clear away the legal obstacles that could block transplants of hearts and other organs, a nationwide survey by The Associated Press shows.

Bar associations and medical societies in some other states are studying the subject.

However, the National Academy of Science's new Board of Medicine has urged the nation's surgeons to take a cautious approach in developing heart transplantation techniques.

"The procedure cannot as yet be regarded as an accepted form of therapy, even a heroic one," the board said. "It must be viewed for what it is, a scientific exploration of the unknown."

The board proposed guidelines that would restrict heart transplants to a "relatively small number" of minutes controlled operations performed at only the best qualified institutions and overseen by numerous independent experts.

Some clergymen and other groups, in studying the complex ethical problems of heart transplants, have raised such questions as:

—What determines the time of the donor's death—the cessation of heart or brain action?

—Who will determine among the many persons who need a new healthy heart which ones will receive the relatively few available?

The legislatures have not gone into these questions and the laws passed or under consideration apply to the transplantation of all internal organs.

Organ transplant bills were taken up by lawmakers this year in Virginia, California, Kansas, South Carolina, Maryland and Oklahoma.

The Virginia General Assembly passed a sweeping law, backed by the Medical Society of Virginia, that would make vital organs of the recently dead available for surgical transplant.

The law, which becomes effective at the end of June, provides that the chief medical examiner or his deputies may release a vital organ from a dead person under their jurisdiction provided:

—A patient is in immediate need for an internal organ as a transplant.

—There is insufficient time to contact the next of kin in order to maintain the health of the organ to be transplanted and no known objection is foreseen from the next of kin.

—The organ removed from the dead person will not interfere with the medical examiner's investigation or autopsy.

The dead persons under the medical examiner's jurisdiction would include those killed by accident, suicide or homicide, or those who died suddenly when in apparent good health, or when in prison, or when the body is to be cremated.

The Kansas Legislature adopted a bill providing that any competent person may donate body organs to another person. Upon death, the person's spouse, adult child or parent—in that order—may donate the dead person's heart or any other body organ if this has been requested by the person before death.

"I am proud that Kansas had the foresight to see the need for this law and acted positively," Gov. Robert Docking said in signing it. "It is the first attempt to clarify the legal implications involved in transplants of human organs—a controversy that began with the first transplant operation of a human heart."

Three bills dealing with organ transplants are before lawmakers in California. Several assemblymen have urged that a joint Assembly-Senate committee be appointed to go into such questions as when is a person considered legally dead, or who has the right to authorize the transplant, or what problems will arise if the transplanted organ harms the recipient?

In Los Angeles, Evelle Younger, district attorney, has formed a 15-member committee of doctors, clergymen, lawyers and laymen headed by president of California Institute of Technology, Lee Dubridge. The committee may recommend statutes to the legislature.

"There probably will be legal complaints in the future if a person dies or is seriously injured in a transplant, and we are not prepared legally at present for such complaints," Younger said.

"Also, let's say two people are in need of a transplant when a vital organ becomes available," Younger added. "How are we to decide who should get the organ? And who should make the decision? Should the state become involved or just the medical profession?"

The Maryland Legislature passed a bill which would give the proposed donor of tissues and organs the exclusive right to revoke the decision. Present law gives the next of kin 72 hours after the proposed donor's death to revoke—too late for useful transplants in most cases.

The South Carolina Senate and the Oklahoma House passed bills designed to remove any implied warranty that blood used in transfusions of organs used in transplants are without defect.

The legislation would protect surgeons from legal responsibility in the event of failure of transplanted organs or hepatitis after a blood transfusion. Surgeons still would be liable for damage suits for negligence or faulty procedures.

LESS THAN TWO DAYS were required to finish this burial marker in Atlanta, Ga., a job that usually runs to about three months, said a marble company executive.

Lawmakers Clear Obstacles to Organ Transplants

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Lawmakers in a half-dozen states have acted to clear away the legal obstacles that could block transplants of hearts and other organs, a nationwide survey by The Associated Press shows.

Bar associations and medical societies in some other states are studying the subject.

However, the National Academy of Science's new Board of Medicine has urged the nation's surgeons to take a cautious approach in developing heart transplantation techniques.

"The procedure cannot as yet be regarded as an accepted form of therapy, even a heroic one," the board said. "It must be viewed for what it is, a scientific exploration of the unknown."

The board proposed guidelines that would restrict heart transplants to a "relatively small number" of minutely controlled operations performed at only the best qualified institutions and overseen by numerous independent experts.

Some clergymen and other groups, in studying the complex ethical problems of heart transplants, have raised such questions as:

—What determines the time of the donor's death—the cessation of heart or brain action?

—Who will determine among the many persons who need a new healthy heart which ones will receive the relatively few available?

The legislatures have not gone into these questions and the laws passed or under consideration apply to the transplantation of all internal organs.

Organ transplant bills were taken up by lawmakers this year in Virginia, California, Kansas, South Carolina, Maryland and Oklahoma.

The Virginia General Assembly passed a sweeping law, backed by the Medical Society of Virginia, that would make vital organs of the recently dead available for surgical transplant.

The law, which becomes effective at the end of June, provides that the chief medical examiner or his deputies may release a vital organ from a dead person under their jurisdiction provided:

—A patient is in immediate need for an internal organ as a transplant.

—There is insufficient time to contact the next of kin in order to maintain the health of the organ to be transplanted and no known objection is foreseen from the next of kin.

—The organ removed from the dead person will not interfere with the medical examiner's investigation or autopsy.

The dead persons under the medical examiner's jurisdiction would include those killed by accident, suicide or homicide, or those who died suddenly when in apparent good health, or when in prison, or when the body is to be cremated.

The Kansas Legislature adopted a bill providing that any competent person may donate body organs to another person. Upon death, the person's spouse, adult child or parent—in that order—may donate the dead person's heart or any other body organ if this has been requested by the person before death.

"I am proud that Kansas had the foresight to see the need for this law and acted positively," Gov. Robert Docking said in signing it. "It is the first attempt to clarify the legal implications involved in transplants of human organs—a controversy that began with the first transplant operation of a human heart."

Three bills dealing with organ transplants are before lawmakers in California. Several assemblymen have urged that a joint Assembly-Senate committee be appointed to go into such questions as when is a person considered legally dead, or who has the right to authorize the transplant, or what problems will arise if the transplanted organ harms the recipient?

In Los Angeles, Evette Younger, district attorney, has formed a 15-member committee of doctors, clergymen, lawyers and laymen headed by president of California Institute of Technology, Lee Dubridge. The committee may recommend statutes to the legislature.

"There probably will be legal complaints in the future if a person dies or is seriously injured in a transplant, and we are not prepared legally at present for such complaints," Younger said.

"Also, let's say two people are in need of a transplant when a vital organ becomes available," Younger added. "How are we to decide who should get the organ? And who should make the decision? Should the state become involved or just the medical profession?"

The Maryland Legislature passed a bill which would give the proposed donor of tissues and organs the exclusive right to revoke the decision. Present law gives the next of kin 72 hours after the proposed donor's death to revoke—too late for useful transplants in most cases.

The South Carolina Senate and the Oklahoma House passed bills designed to remove any implied warranty that blood used in transfusions of organs used in transplants are without defect.

The legislation would protect surgeons from legal responsibility in the event of failure of transplanted organs or hepatitis after a blood transfusion. Surgeons still would be liable for damage suits for negligence or faulty procedures.

LESS THAN TWO DAYS were required to finish this burial marker in Atlanta, Ga., a job that usually runs to about three months, said a marble company executive.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Children skipping rope to a chant their grandmothers knew when young. The healing of a wound and the falling off of a ugly scab. New hopes in a new spring. A line of daffodils making a yellow bonfire along a green hedge.

The sound of gospel singing in a weathered rural church. Old ladies with fat arms leaning on pillows in tenement windows to get a breath of April air and see what's stirring on the streets below. Colts frolicking before a wind rippling across an emerald pasture. The twilight sound of bells, ringing from far away.

Tossing a stone into a small lake at dusk and wondering if the spreading ripples will undulate forever. Consoling a sobbing baby after it falls down and hurts itself, or gets soap-suds in its eyes while taking a bath. Finding the paycheck unexpectedly larger by a few dollars, and deciding that maybe the boss isn't such a forgetful ogre after all.

Painting an old boat and planning on all the fish you'll catch from it come summer. The delicious ecstasy of taking a hot shower after a day-long hike through the woods.

The red thrill of the first strawberries of the season upon the breakfast plate. Hitting a 200-yard drive over a golf course water hazard, or seeing Mickey Mantle or Willie Mays jog around the base paths after lofting a long ball into the stands. Telling ghost stories to Boy Scouts making their first overnight hike. Putting in a garden and counting how many long weeks it will be until the tomatoes ripen. God and the bugs being willing.

Assuring a middle-aged wife you couldn't possibly love her any more, even if she dieted off 10 pounds instead of five. Listening to the kids laugh as they go through an old family album and see how funny Dad and Mom looked when they were teen-agers.

Picking up a forgotten poetry anthology and finding the words now have a deeper, richer meaning to you than they did in high school or college. Watching robins collect worms for their young after a rain.

Winning the one-legged hopping race at the annual PTA picnic. Discussing gravely with two precocious sales ladies from the Girl Scouts whether your family needs two or three boxes of cookies, price no object. Calling a family debate on how the budget should be stretched this year—to buy a new car you can't afford, or a color television set the kids say they can't do without.

"Imitation pearls."

The World Today

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The boom of the first American bomb on North Vietnam in August 1964 signaled the mushrooming troubles at home and abroad that finally drove Lyndon B. Johnson out of the political arena.

One way or another the divisions within the nation, which the President gave as the reason for his decision not to run again, represent swelling reverberations from that blast.

The list is nearly endless—accusations of fraud following the administration's stated reasons for the first bombing, complaints of a credibility gap in administration reports of war progress and prospects, immorality charges over U.S. participation in the war, trouble in the streets and protests that war money should be used instead to solve problems at home.

The first bombs fell on Communist shore installations in retaliation for a reported attack by North Vietnamese torpedo boats on American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The national split showed up—just a small crack initially—in the first event that followed. That was Senate adoption of the Tonkin Resolution to back the President in "all necessary measures" to resist attack and deter aggression.

Only Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, opposed that measure. They argued the United States had no right to make war in Vietnam and had no national interest to serve there.

That and similar points of view have been gaining backers ever since.

But the Johnson administration has cited the Tonkin Resolution as its commission for whatever measures it felt necessary to meet the stated goal of deterrence for the Communists.

And the ballooning of the war effort on that basis has been matched, almost step by step, by the rising din of protest.

Leadership in that movement has been taken over by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He shepherded the resolution through to adoption in 1964 but now contends it was never intended for the uses to which it was put.

The issue moved into the even broader forum of national politics when first Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and then Sen. Robert F. Kennedy opened presidential drives with the war their overriding platform issue.

Johnson coupled his political pull-out with a new bombing pause offer as a bid for talks, and right up to the time when the Communists made some movement toward acceptance last week, the administration was insisting there had been no sign of willingness on the other side.

Despite such contentions, the ranks of opposition continued to swell in almost precise proportion to the degree of American involvement in the war.

The time when the widening break became a chasm can almost be pinpointed as last August when U.S. forces in Vietnam went past half a million.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Automobile salesmen and dealers throughout America are talking up a real spurt in car sales. The increase began early in the first quarter of the year, but took off in the final 10 days of March.

The figures exceed even the estimates of many of the industry's positive thinking forecasters.

First quarter sales of the nation's Big Four automakers totaled more than two million cars despite a sluggish start.

In the March 21-31 period alone, the combined sales of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors were more than 322,000 cars, a pace that has been bettered only in 1965 and 1966.

In this 10-day period, Americans bought 36,000 cars more than in the same period a year earlier, or about 3,600 cars more a day—in spite of domestic and international turmoil.

True, some peculiarities must be explained.

Ford, still rebounding from a strike, is providing cars now for many customers who couldn't buy them earlier. And sales incentive contests this year may have added to the bulge.

Still, the spring sales pace of 1968 stands close to the best, exceeded only by 1966 and 1965 when 2.2 million cars were sold in the first quarter. But, when increased purchases of foreign cars are included, Americans are found to be buying at a pace very close to the record.

Consider the situation just a couple of years ago. Sales were booming and manufacturers were projecting sales of cars and trucks of about 10.6 million. Henry Ford II foresaw sales in excess of 13 million by 1970. Confidence abounded.

Everything seemed to go sour at once. Safety, an issue that car makers had long pursued—but perhaps dutifully and sometimes ploddingly—suddenly was on everyone's mind. Inflation spread through the economy. Consumer confidence began drying up in the heat of domestic and world tensions.

Car sales slumped beneath estimates. Millions of cars were found to have defects, mostly minor. American Motors got into serious financial trouble. Imported cars began taking a larger share of the American market.

Some of these problems still remain. In fact, imported cars are taking an increasingly larger share of the market, apparently because Detroit has failed to come up with suitable small competitors.

American Motors is still in serious financial trouble, but even this critical situation has improved a bit with the return of American to profitability in the final quarter of 1967.

Confidence also seems to be returning to the auto buying public, although it seems to be a conditional thing that is not reflected in opinion surveys and which could be upset by a large dose of bad news.

As one of them took his first tentative bite into his banana, the train entered a long tunnel. He cried to his companion, "Don't touch that banana or whatever they call it, Bud! I've took just one bite and gone blind!"

Tough old Farmer Potter fired a promising new worker on his dairy farm, and Mrs. Potter protested. "That was a nice boy," she pointed out. "He didn't drink, smoke, or chase after the girls. What did you have against him?" Farmer Potter told her grimly, "He ate margarine."

Every year a medical columnist is bombarded with letters, writing material and publicity releases about a special month in the year called "The Diabetic Month." A flurry of excitement runs through the press because of an artificial build-up of interest and enthusiasm about the disease and then all of it simmers down to the standard pattern of complacency and even neglect.

There is no diabetes month or week or year. There must be a constant awareness of good health all throughout the year with special emphasis on those diseases which must be uncovered early and brought out into the open.

A few basic principles about diabetes must be known and respected if the lives of those who have it are to be prolonged and kept in a constant state of good health.

It is accepted that there is a hereditary tendency towards diabetes. If one or more parents has had the disease there is a greater chance of acquiring this disorder sometime during one's life. This does not mean that healthy people must go through life constantly aware that a threat hangs heavy over them. Rather, it means that they should be on a closer lookout for the possibility of its occurrence.

Diabetes is one of the few diseases that can be easily diagnosed and kept under control especially when recognized early. Specialists in the field of diabetes speak about a group of people called the pre-diabetics. These may be the ones with a family history of the disease or the children of parents who may have had the condition. The pre-diabetic can be revealed by studies of the blood even in the absence of sugar in the urine or symptoms of the disorder.

Diabetes is classified into four major groups. The first includes those diabetic patients whose health can be controlled with diet and with a restricted intake of sugars. Group two are those who need a more rigid control with a diabetic diet.

Group three includes those who require less than 30 units of insulin a day. Many in this group can also be kept in good balance with the use of the new anti-diabetic drugs that are taken by mouth.

Group four includes the more severe types of the disease.

These may be the ones who have neglected treatment for many years and have been careless in the use of their diet and medication. This group needs more than 30 units of insulin in addition to the same strict diet.

Often patients ask whether or not there are any symptoms that can alert them to the possibility of diabetes. Symptoms have a strange way of becoming confused especially by those people who are moderately anxious about diseases in general. Excessive thirst, excessive hunger, excessive urination, chronic fatigue and a sense of weakness after only slight exertion make physicians suspicious of the possibility of this disorder. Yet they never speculate about it until they are absolutely certain by repeated examinations of the blood, the sugar levels, and the testing of the urine for sugar.

Tingling sensations in the feet, itching of the skin, and a tendency for simple cuts and bruises to remain unhealed makes some people suspect. Yet these same symptoms may be caused by a wide range of diseases other than diabetes. It is, therefore, completely unwise to be a self-diagnostician and to live in terror about a condition that may or may not exist.

The only answer for the undiscovered diabetic is a regular health examination. There is no short cut to avoid it. Those who follow the teachings of the American Diabetic Association and Public Health campaigns have been granted lifetimes of health by bringing their early or pre-diabetic conditions to the attention of their doctors.

All patients confined to bed for a long time should be turned in bed from side to side to avoid congestion of the lungs.

Urge Helicopter For High-Rise Fires

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Fire Commissioner Robert B. Howard Jr. has suggested to the City Council that a helicopter might be useful for fighting fires in high-rise buildings.

The commissioner asked the council to purchase or lease one of the copters since aerial ladders can not extend more than seven stories. He said it could be used for rescuing people or for airlifting firemen and lightweight hoses.

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

"In Ruritania," said the Foreign Minister of that country, "they are telling it like it is about the Pax Americana. Where the Pax Romana lasted four hundred years, and the Pax Britannia a full century, your own bloody world system that was set up in 1945 has collapsed after just twenty-three years. Lyndon Johnson may not know this, but that's what a failure to win your war in South Vietnam means."

"Oh, well," so the Foreign Minister of Ruritania continued, "it might be worse. The barbarians got to Rome, of course, and sacked it pretty thoroughly. But before they get around to sacking the United States, the modern barbarians — and I exclude very few nations — have plenty of trouble to handle at home."

"In fact, the only encouraging thing about the world in this year of the collapse of the Pax Americana is that it is practically no government anywhere commands the unqualified loyalty of all its citizens. You can except little countries like Israel and Switzerland, maybe. With rulers everywhere worried about their own underlying populations, who among them dares march?"

"The curious thing about the collapse of the Pax Americana is that it seems to be matched by what is happening to the more limited Pax Sovietica in eastern Europe. In Czechoslovakia and Poland, the students are straining at the leash. I don't see any real system of internal liberty developing in these countries for a while yet, but the point is that Soviet Russia is hardly going to make a grab for West Berlin if Brezhnev and Kossygin can't count on the quiescence of the Rumanians, the Hungarians, the Poles, and the Czechoslovaks. The Communists won't move as long as there are potential saboteurs sitting along their lines of communication."

"For that matter, the Russkies aren't doing too well in handling their own younger generation at home. Evidently there isn't a young intellectual in the whole U.S.S.R. who really wants to die for Marxism-Leninism any more. Sure, the intellectuals submit when their buddies among the poets and novelists are jailed or when they themselves are drafted for the Soviet army. But can you see them really fighting for Nasser against the Israelis in the sands of Sinai?"

"As for East Asia," so the Foreign Minister said, "I'm perfectly sure that if the Viet Cong gets a couple of sensitive positions in any South Vietnamese government it means the end of the ball game locally. South Vietnam will become a Ho Chi Minh enterprise. And Cambodia and Laos will be taken over internally. But Taiwan and the Philippines, and even Thailand, perhaps, should remain safe as long as Mao Tse-tung's China continues to be a mess."

"You Americans can thank your lucky stars that no Establishment anywhere is liked by the people who are taxed and pushed around and subjected to the filing of forms and the necessity of listening to government radio. Even in your own hemisphere you are playing in luck. Castro's Cuba can't make a living out of its sugar, and Fidel seems to bungle every other business he gets into. He had to crack down on his own pro-Moscow Communists in order to nip a local take-over by conspiracy in the bud, and sea."

Brezhnev and Kossygin have been keeping him on short rations as a punishment. There isn't much energy left in Havana to support guerrilla activity in Venezuela and Bolivia.

"The whole darned world," so the Foreign Minister of Ruritania summed it up, "is so beset with local grumblings that nobody can risk the game of empire. This means there isn't going to be any World War III. But the next period in history won't be distinguished by its orderly quality. With nobody to impose a world system, trade may draft back to barter. Everybody will be a little poorer. The young, without great futures, will continue to drop out and cop out and rebel."

"You can have it this way if you like it," said the Foreign Minister. "But as for me, I wish the world were still being run by the gold standard backed by British gunboats, which usually remained unprovocatively at sea."

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, April 11, the 102nd day of 1968. There are 264 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1899, the U.S. government proclaimed a treaty with Spain, ending the Spanish-American War.

On this date: In 1814, Napoleon Bonaparte declared that he was willing to abdicate as emperor of France. In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln made his last public speech. He spoke about reconstruction of the South in an address to a group of citizens assembled before the White House.

In 1898, President William McKinley sent a message to Congress asking for a declaration of war against Spain.

In 1926, the American horticulturist, Luther Burbank, died.

In 1947, Jackie Robinson joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition game, becoming the first Negro to play with a major league baseball team.

In 1951, President Harry S. Truman relieved Gen. Douglas MacArthur of his commands in the Far East.

Ten years ago—The Soviet Union proposed that diplomatic negotiations begin in Moscow to prepare for an East-West summit meeting.

Five years ago: U.N. Secretary-General U Thant voiced approval of the U.S.-Soviet agreement to establish a direct communications link, the so-called "hot line."

One year ago: President John-son arrived at Punta del Este, Uruguay for a meeting with Latin American heads of government.

Even Destruction Not All Bad

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the hundreds of fires that swept sections of the nation's capital after violence broke out last Thursday night destroyed the four-room apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Everett, parents of five.

A social agency helping the several hundred people made homeless by similar fires found the Everetts a new place to live a three-story, white brick row house at $9 less rent a month and with two more bedrooms than they had.

"I'm sorry things happened like this, the fire and all," said Mrs. Everett Tuesday. "But I've been wanting a house for a long time."

Working below 300 feet under the ocean is not easy. At that depth body warmth is lost 77 times faster than in normal atmosphere. Tobacco refuses to stay lit and water for tea and coffee can not be brought to a boil.

Gloom To Return

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The film industry is enjoying its annual euphoria in the wake of the Academy Awards. But soon the gloom will return.

The film capital has been depressed, mentally as well as economically. The movie unions have been making dire statements about the condition of the industry, and their leaders have petitioned legislators for help.

"Things have never been this bad," remarked a veteran labor leader. "We took salary cuts during the depression, but at least we kept on making pictures."

Much has been said and written about the economic stresses that have brought about Hollywood's ills: the rise of labor costs, the crushing overhead of maintaining the big studio plants, foreign subsidies and lower costs that cause film makers to shoot abroad, etc. Such matters are not the entire cause.

Variety has reported on a survey authorized by the Motion Picture Association. The report was submitted to association President Jack Valenti by Daniel Yankelevich and Associates, and it analyzes why Americans go to the movies and how often.

It should surprise no one that the film audience is young. Almost half of those who attend theaters are between the ages of 16 and 24.

The startling part of the survey is the report that only 25 million Americans can be regarded as frequent movie goers. That represents only 18 per cent of the 138 million Americans over 16. Those 25 million film fans each see an average of 39 pictures a year.

The report indicated that of the remaining 113 million Americans over 16—

41 million never go to the movies.

72 million see an average of only 4.2 pictures per year. Who are the most frequent film goers? According to the survey, most of them are young and single. Film attendance falls precipitously with marriage and age, the movie habit generally being broken by the age of 29.

The leaders must ponder whether there is any way to win back the over-30 audience. Or has the industry lost the mature citizens by flooding television with movies? Most of the married folks, if they care about movies at all, seem to be saying, "Why should I bother with getting a sitter and driving to the theater? The movie will be on TV in a year or so."

The vastness of the potential film market was provided by "The Sound of Music," which has attracted more than $100 million on the strength of its sheer entertainment. All the industry has to do is make more films like "Sound of Music." Unfortunately, that doesn't seem so easy to accomplish.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A COUPLE OF GENUINE hillbillies were drafted, and boarded a train for the very first time to report for induction. An attendant soon walked through the car selling bananas — which they never had seen before, either. As one of them took his first tentative bite into his banana, the train entered a long tunnel. He cried to his companion, "Don't touch that banana or whatever they call it, Bud! I've took just one bite and gone blind!"

Tough old Farmer Potter fired a promising new worker on his dairy farm, and Mrs. Potter protested. "That was a nice boy," she pointed out. "He didn't drink, smoke, or chase after the girls. What did you have against him?" Farmer Potter told her grimly, "He ate margarine."

FROM THE NOTEBOOKS OF COL. CORNBREB: Our next-door neighbor is busy as a beaver saving up for his vacation—the one he just had. When a fellow says "A strange thing happened to me on the Long Island Expressway this morning," it probably means he arrived safely. Most people who can't judge a paper-bound reprint of a risqué novel buy its cover. All that too many people have ready for a rainy day is a freshly washed car.

You're Telling Me

A Saigon newspaper wants the six-man team representing the South Vietnam general assembly on a tour of the U.S., to be made up of handsome men of good stature who speak English fluently. That's a pretty tall order.

British yachtsman Alec Rose, despite an injury to his left leg, continues his solo sailing trip around the world. Apparently he plans to do very little walking.

A British magazine, Waste Trade World, has changed its name to Materials Reclamation Weekly. Gosh, now even its title has been scrapped!

A Detroit high school girl has written President Johnson suggesting a nationwide bake sale, proceeds to go toward paying off part of the national debt. A sort of dough for dough proposition?

Betcha Dollar Dennis says he likes the chances of that horse Alley Fighter in the Kentucky Derby. That nag should be able to hold his own if the going gets rough.

Every year a medical columnist is bombarded with letters, writing material and publicity releases about a special month in the year called "The Diabetic Month." A flurry of excitement runs through the press because of an artificial build-up of interest and enthusiasm about the disease and then all of it simmers down to the standard pattern of complacency and even neglect.

There is no diabetes month or week or year. There must be a constant awareness of good health all throughout the year with special emphasis on those diseases which must be uncovered early and brought out into the open.

A few basic principles about diabetes must be known and respected if the lives of those who have it are to be prolonged and kept in a constant state of good health.

It is accepted that there is a hereditary tendency towards diabetes. If one or more parents has had the disease there is a greater chance of acquiring this disorder sometime during one's life. This does not mean that healthy people must go through life constantly aware that a threat hangs heavy over them. Rather, it means that they should be on a closer lookout for the possibility of its occurrence.

Diabetes is one of the few diseases that can be easily diagnosed and kept under control especially when recognized early. Specialists in the field of diabetes speak about a group of people called the pre-diabetics. These may be the ones with a family history of the disease or the children of parents who may have had the condition. The pre-diabetic can be revealed by studies of the blood even in the absence of sugar in the urine or symptoms of the disorder.

Diabetes is classified into four major groups. The first includes those diabetic patients whose health can be controlled with diet and with a restricted intake of sugars. Group two are those who need a more rigid control with a diabetic diet.

Group three includes those who require less than 30 units of insulin a day. Many in this group can also be kept in good balance with the use of the new anti-diabetic drugs that are taken by mouth.

Group four includes the more severe types of the disease.

These may be the ones who have neglected treatment for many years and have been careless in the use of their diet and medication. This group needs more than 30 units of insulin in addition to the same strict diet.

Often patients ask whether or not there are any symptoms that can alert them to the possibility of diabetes. Symptoms have a strange way of becoming confused especially by those people who are moderately anxious about diseases in general. Excessive thirst, excessive hunger, excessive urination, chronic fatigue and a sense of weakness after only slight exertion make physicians suspicious of the possibility of this disorder. Yet they never speculate about it until they are absolutely certain by repeated examinations of the blood, the sugar levels, and the testing of the urine for sugar.

Tingling sensations in the feet, itching of the skin, and a tendency for simple cuts and bruises to remain unhealed makes some people suspect. Yet these same symptoms may be caused by a wide range of diseases other than diabetes. It is, therefore, completely unwise to be a self-diagnostician and to live in terror about a condition that may or may not exist.

The only answer for the undiscovered diabetic is a regular health examination. There is no short cut to avoid it. Those who follow the teachings of the American Diabetic Association and Public Health campaigns have been granted lifetimes of health by bringing their early or pre-diabetic conditions to the attention of their doctors.

All patients confined to bed for a long time should be turned in bed from side to side to avoid congestion of the lungs.

Urge Helicopter For High-Rise Fires

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Fire Commissioner Robert B. Howard Jr. has suggested to the City Council that a helicopter might be useful for fighting fires in high-rise buildings.

The commissioner asked the council to purchase or lease one of the copters since aerial ladders can not extend more than seven stories. He said it could be used for rescuing people or for airlifting firemen and lightweight hoses.

The World Today

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The boom of the first American bomb on North Vietnam in August 1964 signaled the mushrooming troubles at home and abroad that finally drove Lyndon B. Johnson out of the political arena.

One way or another the divisions within the nation, which the President gave as the reason for his decision not to run again, represent swelling reverberations from that blast.

The list is nearly endless—accusations of fraud following the administration's stated reasons for the first bombing, complaints of a credibility gap in administration reports of war progress and prospects, immorality charges over U.S. participation in the war, trouble in the streets and protests that war money should be used instead to solve problems at home.

The first bombs fell on Communist shore installations in retaliation for a reported attack by North Vietnamese torpedo boats on American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The national split showed up—just a small crack initially—in the first event that followed. That was Senate adoption of the Tonkin Resolution to back the President in "all necessary measures" to resist attack and deter aggression.

Only Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, opposed that measure. They argued the United States had no right to make war in Vietnam and had no national interest to serve there.

That and similar points of view have been gaining backers ever since. But the Johnson administration has cited the Tonkin Resolution as its commission for whatever measures it felt necessary to meet the stated goal of deterrence for the Communists.

And the ballooning of the war effort on that basis has been matched, almost step by step, by the rising din of protest.

Leadership in that movement has been taken over by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He shepherded the resolution through to adoption in 1964 but now contends it was never intended for the uses to which it was put.

The issue moved into the even broader forum of national politics when first Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and then Sen. Robert F. Kennedy opened presidential drives with the war their overriding platform issue.

Johnson coupled his political pull-out with a new bombing pause offer as a bid for talks, and right up to the time when the Communists made some movement toward acceptance last week, the administration was insisting there had been no sign of willingness on the other side.

Despite such contentions, the ranks of opposition continued to swell in almost precise proportion to the degree of American involvement in the war.

The time when the widening break became a chasm can almost be pinpointed as last August when U.S. forces in Vietnam went past half a million.

End of the Pax Americans

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

"In Ruritania," said the Foreign Minister of that country, "they are telling it like it is about the Pax Americana. Where the Pax Romana lasted four hundred years, and the Pax Britannia a full century, your own bloody world system that was set up in 1945 has collapsed after just twenty-three years. Lyndon Johnson may not know this, but that's what a failure to win your war in South Vietnam means."

"Oh, well," so the Foreign Minister of Ruritania continued, "it might be worse. The barbarians got to Rome, of course, and sacked it pretty thoroughly. But before they get around to sacking the United States, the modern barbarians — and I exclude very few nations — have plenty of trouble to handle at home."

"In fact, the only encouraging thing about the world in this year of the collapse of the Pax Americana is that practically no government anywhere commands the unqualified loyalty of all its citizens. You can except little countries like Israel and Switzerland, maybe. With rulers everywhere worried about their own underlying populations, who among them dares march?"

"The curious thing about the collapse of the Pax Americana is that it seems to be matched by what is happening to the more limited Pax Sovietica in eastern Europe. In Czechoslovakia and Poland, the students are straining at the leash. I don't see any real system of internal liberty developing in these countries for a while yet, but the point is that Soviet Russia is hardly going to make a grab for West Berlin if Brezhnev and Kosygin can't count on the quiescence of the Rumanians, the Hungarians, the Poles, and the Czechoslovaks. The Communists won't move as long as there are potential saboteurs sitting along their lines of communication."

"For that matter, the Russians aren't doing too well in handling their own younger generation at home. Evidently there isn't a young intellectual in the whole U.S.S.R. who really wants to die for Marxism-Leninism any more. Sure, the intellectuals submit when their buddies among the poets and novelists are jailed or when they themselves are drafted for the Soviet army. But can you see them really fighting for Nasser against the Israelis in the sands of Sinai?"

"As for East Asia," so the Foreign Minister said, "I'm perfectly sure that if the Viet Cong gets a couple of sensitive positions in any South Vietnamese government it means the end of the ball game locally. South Vietnam will become a Ho Chi Minh enterprise. And Cambodia and Laos will be taken over internally. But Taiwan and the Philippines, and even Thailand, perhaps, should remain safe as long as Mao Tse-tung's China continues to be a mess."

"You Americans can thank your lucky stars that no Establishment anywhere is liked by the people who are taxed and pushed around and subjected to the filing of forms and the necessity of listening to government radio. Even in your own hemisphere you are playing in luck. Castro's Cuba can't make a living out of its sugar, and Fidel seems to bungle every other business he gets into. He had to crack down on his own pro-Moscow Communists in order to nip a local take-over conspiracy in the bud, and Brezhnev and Kosygin have been keeping him on short rations as a punishment. There isn't much energy left in Havana to support guerrilla activity in Venezuela and Bolivia.

"The whole darned world," so the Foreign Minister of Ruritania summed it up, "is so beset with local grumblings that nobody can risk the game of empire. This means there isn't going to be any World War III. But the next period in history won't be distinguished by its orderly quality. With nobody to impose a world system, trade may draft back to barter. Everybody will be a little poorer. The young, without great futures, will continue to drop out and cop out and rebel."

"You can have it this way if you like it," said the Foreign Minister. "But as for me, I wish the world were still being run by the gold standard backed by British gunboats, which usually remained unprovocatively at sea."

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, April 11, the 102nd day of 1968. There are 264 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1899, the U.S. government proclaimed a treaty with Spain, ending the Spanish-American War.

On this date: In 1814, Napoleon Bonaparte declared that he was willing to abdicate as emperor of France.

In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln made his last public speech. He spoke about reconstruction of the South in an address to a group of citizens assembled before the White House.

In 1898, President William McKinley sent a message to Congress asking for a declaration of war against Spain.

In 1926, the American horticulturist, Luther Burbank, died.

In 1947, Jackie Robinson joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition game, becoming the first Negro to play with a major league baseball team.

In 1951, President Harry S. Truman relieved Gen. Douglas MacArthur of his commands in the Far East.

Ten years ago—The Soviet Union proposed that diplomatic negotiations begin in Moscow to prepare for an East-West summit meeting.

Five years ago: U.N. Secretary-General U Thant voiced approval of the U.S.-Soviet agreement to establish a direct communications link, the so-called "hot line."

One year ago: President Johnson arrived at Punta del Este, Uruguay for a meeting with Latin American heads of government.

Even Destruction Not All Bad

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the hundreds of fires that swept sections of the nation's capital after violence broke out last Thursday night destroyed the four-room apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Everett, parents of five.

A social agency helping the several hundred people made homeless by similar fires found the Everetts a new place to live a three-story, white brick row house at $9 less rent a month and with two more bedrooms than they had.

"I'm sorry things happened like this, the fire and all," said Mrs. Everett Tuesday. "But I've been wanting a house for a long time."

Working below 300 feet under the ocean is not easy. At that depth body warmth is lost 77 times faster than in normal atmosphere. Tobacco refuses to stay lit and water for tea and coffee can not be brought to a boil.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Automobile salesmen and dealers throughout America are talking up a real spurt in car sales. The increase began early in the first quarter of the year, but took off in the final 10 days of March.

The figures exceed even the estimates of many of the industry's positive thinking forecasters.

First quarter sales of the nation's Big Four automakers totaled more than two million cars despite a sluggish start.

In the March 21-31 period alone, the combined sales of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors were more than 322,000 cars a pace that has been bettered only in 1965 and 1966.

In this 10-day period, Americans bought 36,000 cars more than in the same period a year earlier, or about 3,600 cars more a day—this in spite of domestic and international turmoil.

True, some peculiarities must be explained.

Ford, still rebounding from a strike, is providing cars now for many customers who couldn't buy them earlier. And sales incentive contests this year may have added to the bulge.

Still, the spring sales pace of 1968 stands close to the best, exceeded only by 1966 and 1965 when 2.2 million cars were sold in the first quarter. But, when increased purchases of foreign cars are included, Americans are found to be buying at a pace very close to the record.

Consider the situation just a couple of years ago. Sales were booming and manufacturers were projecting sales of cars and trucks of about 10.6 million. Henry Ford II foresaw sales in excess of 13 million by 1970. Confidence abounded.

Everything seemed to go sour at once. Safety, an issue that car makers had long pursued—but perhaps dutifully and sometimes ploddingly—suddenly was on everyone's mind. Inflation spread through the economy. Consumer confidence began drying up in the heat of domestic and world tensions.

Car sales slumped beneath estimates. Millions of cars were found to have defects, mostly minor. American Motors got into serious financial trouble. Imported cars began taking a larger share of the American market.

Some of these problems still remain. In fact, imported cars are taking an increasingly large share of the market, apparently because Detroit has failed to come up with suitable small competitors.

American Motors is still in serious financial trouble, but even this critical situation has improved a bit with the return of American to profitability in the final quarter of 1967.

Confidence also seems to be returning to the auto buying public, although it seems to be a conditional thing that is not reflected in opinion surveys and which could be upset by a large dose of bad news.

Gloom To Return

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The film industry is enjoying its annual euphoria in the wake of the Academy Awards. But soon the gloom will return.

The film capital has been depressed, mentally as well as economically. The movie unions have been making dire statements about the condition of the industry, and their leaders have petitioned legislators for help.

"Things have never been this bad," remarked a veteran industry leader. "We took salary cuts during the depression, but at least we kept on making pictures."

Much has been said and written about the economic stresses that have brought about Hollywood's ills: the rise of labor costs, the crushing overhead of maintaining the big studio plants, foreign subsidies and lower costs that cause film makers to shoot abroad, etc. Such matters are not the entire cause.

Variety has reported on a survey authorized by the Motion Picture Association. The report was submitted to association President Jack Vanti by Daniel Yankelevich and Associates, and it analyzes why Americans go to the movies and how often.

It should surprise no one that the film audience is young. Almost half of those who attend theaters are between the ages of 16 and 24.

The startling part of the survey is the report that only 25 million Americans can be regarded as frequent movie goers. That represents only 18 per cent of the 138 million Americans over 16. Those 25 million film fans each see an average of 39 pictures a year.

The report indicated that of the remaining 113 million Americans over 16—

41 million never go to the movies.

72 million see an average of only 4.2 pictures per year. Who are the most frequent film goers? According to the survey, most of them are young and single. Film attendance falls precipitously with marriage and age, the movie habit generally being broken by the age of 29.

The leaders must ponder whether there is any way to win back the over-30 audience. Or has the industry lost the mature citizens by flooding television with movies? Most of the married folks, if they care about movies at all, seem to be saying, "Why should I bother with getting a sitter and driving to the theater? The movie will be on TV in a year or so."

The vastness of the potential film market was provided by "The Sound of Music," which has attracted more than $100 million on the strength of its sheer entertainment. All the industry has to do is make more films like "Sound of Music." Unfortunately, that doesn't seem so easy to accomplish.

Say Offensive In Vietnam Hurts U.S.

Think Hanoi May Get Mad, Cancel Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate Foreign Relations Committee members say a major new allied offensive in South Vietnam threatens chances for peace talks with Hanoi.

The criticism was leveled by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D. Ark., and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., after a closed committee session Wednesday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"The reports of a major new offensive called 'Operation Total Victory' seem to be not quite consistent with a posture seeking talks to de-escalate," said Fulbright.

Symington said: "The action seems strange at a time when it is stated that our primary aim is to achieve a meaningful peace."

The drive by about 100,000 allied troops, billed by the U.S. Command as the biggest operation of the war, is intended to clear the area surrounding Saigon of some 18,000 to 20,000 enemy troops.

Rusk called it a normal operation and said Hanoi meanwhile is showing no signs it is willing to restrain military action in return for a total bombing halt over North Vietnam, as demanded by President Johnson.

Rusk told newsmen after the committee session that "the infiltration is continuing, perhaps increasing."

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Army authorities say they are looking for the servicemen who mailed a doll filled with three-fourths of a pound of marijuana to a Dayton woman.

The 21-year-old woman said she feared the doll might contain a booby trap and her husband directed her to police — who pulled off its head and found some $150 worth of marijuana inside.

The House earlier this week approved an appropriation bill which permits IRS to hire about 1,000 fewer persons than it requested for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

Cohen said last year's congressional economy drive cost the Treasury Department between $50 million and $100 million in lost revenues and at one point IRS had 2,000 job vacancies because of cuts in its budget.

It normally employs about 60,000 persons, including 13,000 field agents.

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Otto Kerner is reconvening the President's Commission on Civil Disorders to study the outbreak of violence that followed the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Chicago Tribune said today.

The story quoted Kerner, commission chairman, as saying he had sent telegrams to all commission members notifying them that the commission will be reconvened.

Harsha Says Justice Dept. Must Share Blame in Rioting

Representative William H. Harsha (R-Ohio) urged Attorney General Ramsey Clark to take prompt steps to "apprehend and prosecute Stokely Carmichael and others who openly call for violence in racial warfare."

In a letter delivered Monday, Harsha said that there is "little question among negroes of this City (D.C.) that Mr. Carmichael's inflammatory statements Friday were a factor in the senseless and shameful burning, looting, and killing in our nation's capital."

Referring to Carmichael's previous calls for guerrilla war in America's cities Harsha said that thoughtful citizens "must place partial blame, at least, for the present tragic crisis on your continued inaction."

The Ohio Congressman warned that a breakdown of law and order would preclude "any effective solution to pressing urban problems."

Text of his letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Clark:
"This is to urge you to take prompt steps to apprehend and prosecute Mr. Stokely Carmichael and others, regardless of race, who openly call for riots and violence in racial warfare."

"I have reason to believe that there is no question among Negroes in this city that Mr. Carmichael's inflammatory statements Friday, April 5, 1968 were a factor in the senseless and shameful burning, looting and rioting in our nation's capital."

"No one can escape the conviction that these and previously made statements calling for force, rioting and guerrilla warfare represent incitement to riot as defined in existing federal legislation."

"Many thoughtful citizens, both Negro and white, believe that Mr. Carmichael's previous calls for guerrilla tactics were cause for action by your department. They must place partial blame at least for the present tragic crisis on your continued inaction."

These citizens believe that a breakdown in law and order will, if it has not already done so, preclude any effective solution to pressing urban problems.

I, therefore, repeat my request that you act quickly and resolutely to identify and prosecute leaders of racial strife who advocate or incite violence, riots, armed force or guerrilla warfare in achieving their ends.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative to Congress

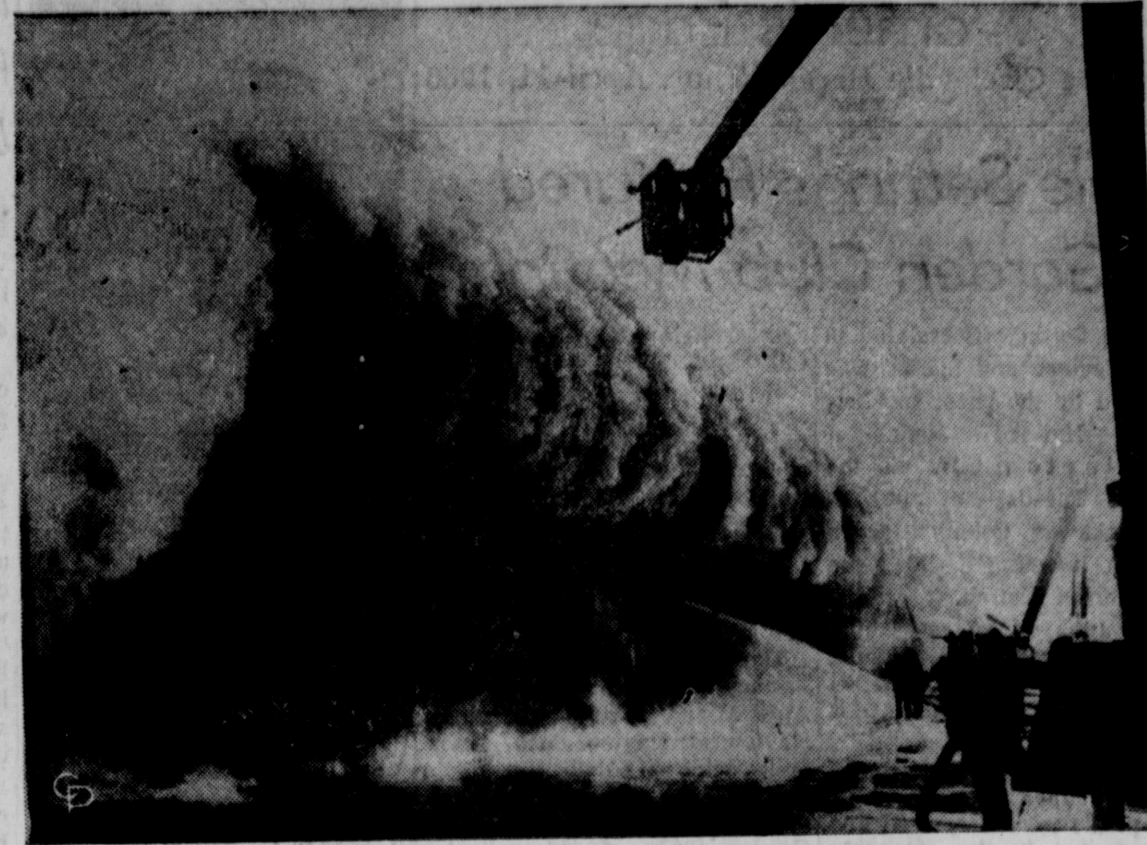

British Trade Still Critical

LONDON (AP) — British exports declined again last month and the nation's foreign trade deficit increased sharply, the Board of Trade announced today.

Exports went down $16.8 million to $1.17 billion, while re-exports were down $4.8 million to $40.8 million. Imports were unchanged, however, at $1.57 billion.

Earnings overseas from freight, insurance and banking reduced the "visible" trade deficit to $247.2 million, compared with a corrected February deficit of $175.2 million.

The March figures raised the visible deficit for the first three months of the year to $506.4 million, an annual rate of $2.025 billion and the highest in British history. However, the government had predicted that the deficit would grow during the early part of the year, until the effects of devaluation of the pound last Nov. 18 work through the economy.

Kindergarten Cookbook A Dandy

SEATTLE (AP) — The directions in the cookbook are simple and to the point: "If it's black it's done . . . add one pound cinnamon, two pounds of salt . . . if you hear them burning, turn off the stove."

The cookbook was compiled by Miss Jean Hobart's kindergarten class at the Campbell Hill Elementary School. The cookbook was a natural outgrowth of a discussion of measuring, which led to the necessity of measuring in cooking, which led to talk of favorite foods and recipes.

Miss Hobart edited "The Kindergarten Cookbook," but pointed out in a covering letter to parents, "The recipes in the book were written exactly as dictated by the authors."

To make "David's Hamburgers"—"First you take a handful of hamburger and flatten it and put it in the oven on a pan with foil on it and cook it for a long while. Take it out and look at it. If it's black it's done. Take it out of the oven and put it on bread. Put cheese, lettuce, onions, tomato, mayonnaise, ketchup, mustard, pickle and relish on it. That's all. Then you eat it."

"Tricia's Coconut Cookies" should "cook" for an hour or longer if necessary "and if you hear them burning you turn off the stove."

BRUSSELS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said today he thinks talks between North Vietnam and the United States will start next week.

"I think conversations will take place sometime next week," he told newsmen as he left for Luxembourg. He is touring European capitals.

Thant said Washington and Hanoi had contacts over the past few days on a place at which to meet and possible places included Geneva, Paris, Phnom Penh, Vientiane, Jakarta, Rangoon and New Delhi.

Say Offensive In Vietnam Hurts U.S.

Think Hanoi May Get Mad, Cancel Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate Foreign Relations Committee members say a major new allied offensive in South Vietnam threatens chances for peace talks with Hanoi.

The criticism was leveled by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., after a closed committee session Wednesday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"The reports of a major new offensive called 'Operation Total Victory' seem to be not quite consistent with a posture seeking talks to de-escalate," said Fulbright.

Symington said: "The action seems strange at a time when it is stated that our primary aim is to achieve a meaningful peace."

The drive by about 100,000 allied troops, billed by the U.S. Command as the biggest operation of the war, is intended to clear the area surrounding Saigon of some 18,000 to 20,000 enemy troops.

Rusk called it a normal operation and said Hanoi meanwhile is showing no signs it is willing to restrain military action in return for a total bombing halt over North Vietnam, as demanded by President Johnson.

Rusk told newsmen after the committee session that "the infiltration is continuing, perhaps increasing."

Vietnam Doll Really Stuffed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Army authorities say they are looking for the servicemen who mailed a doll filled with three-fourths of a pound of marijuana to a Dayton woman.

The 21-year-old woman said she feared the doll might contain a booby trap and her husband directed her to police who pulled off its head and found some $150 worth of marijuana inside.

Harsha Says Justice Dept. Must Share Blame in Rioting

Representative William H. Harsha (R-Ohio) urged Attorney General Ramsey Clark to take prompt steps to "apprehend and prosecute Stokely Carmichael and others who openly call for violence in racial warfare."

In a letter delivered Monday, Harsha said that there is "little question among negroes of this City (D.C.) that Mr. Carmichael's inflammatory statements Friday were a factor in the senseless and shameful burning, looting, and killing in our nation's capital."

Referring to Carmichael's previous calls for guerrilla war in America's cities Harsha said that thoughtful citizens "must place partial blame, at least, for the present tragic crisis on your continued inaction."

The Ohio Congressman warned that a breakdown of law and order would preclude "any effective solution to pressing urban problems."

Text of his letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Clark: This is to urge you to take prompt steps to apprehend and prosecute Mr. Stokely Carmichael and others, regardless of race, who openly call for riots and violence in racial warfare."

"I have reason to believe that there is no question among Negroes in this city that Mr. Carmichael's inflammatory statements Friday, April 5, 1968 were a factor in the senseless and shameful burning, looting and rioting in our nation's capital."

"No one can escape the conviction that these and previously made statements calling for force, rioting and guerrilla warfare represent incitement to riot as defined in existing federal legislation."

"Many thoughtful citizens, both Negro and white, believe that Mr. Carmichael's previous calls for guerrilla tactics were cause for action by your department. They must place partial blame at least for the present tragic crisis on your continued inaction."

These citizens believe that a breakdown in law and order will, if it has not already done so, preclude any effective solution to pressing urban problems."

I, therefore, repeat my request that you act quickly and resolutely to identify and prosecute leaders of racial strife who advocate or incite violence, riots, armed force or guerrilla warfare in achieving their ends."

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM H. HARSHA

British Trade Still Critical

LONDON (AP) — British exports declined again last month and the nation's foreign trade deficit increased sharply, the Board of Trade announced today.

Exports went down $16.8 million to $1.17 billion, while re-exports were down $4.8 million to $40.8 million. Imports were unchanged, however, at $1.57 billion.

Earnings overseas from freight, insurance and banking reduced the "visible" trade deficit to $247.2 million, compared with a corrected February deficit of $175.2 million.

The March figures raised the visible deficit for the first three months of the year to $506.4 million, an annual rate of $2.025 billion and the highest in British history. However, the government had predicted that the deficit would grow during the early part of the year, until the effects of devaluation of the pound last Nov. 18 work through the economy.

50 PIECES OF EQUIPMENT BATTLING FIRE—Firemen using more than 50 pieces of equipment, including four snorkels, battle a fire as smoke billows from under the roof of a warehouse at the Ford City Shopping Center in Chicago. The flames swept through a post office and the warehouse, but none of the 82 stores in the big center were threatened.

Kindergarten Cookbook A Dandy

SEATTLE (AP) — The directions in the cookbook are simple and to the point: "If it's black it's done... add one pound cinnamon, two pounds of salt... if you hear them burning, turn off the stove."

The cookbook was compiled by Miss Jean Hobart's kindergarten class at the Campbell Hill Elementary School. The cookbook was a natural outgrowth of a discussion of measuring, which led to the necessity of measuring in cooking, which led to talk of favorite foods and recipes.

Miss Hobart edited "The Kindergarten Cookbook," but pointed out in a covering letter to parents, "The recipes in the book were written exactly as dictated by the authors."

To make "David's Hamburgers"—"First you take a handful of hamburger and flatten it and put it in the oven on a pan with foil on it and cook it for a long while. Take it out and look at it. If it's black it's done. Take it out of the oven and put it on bread. Put cheese, lettuce, onions, tomato, mayonnaise, ketchup, mustard, pickle and relish on it. That's all. Then you eat it."

"Tricia's Coconut Cookies" should "cook" for an hour or longer if necessary "and if you hear them burning you turn off the stove."

Table Settings Featured At Garden Club Meeting

"Table Settings Correlated in Color, Texture and Spirit" was discussed by the guest speaker, Mrs. Howard Junk of Washington C.H. on the program Tuesday evening at the Pickaway County Garden Club meeting in the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Junk is an accredited Flower Show Judge of National Council of Garden Clubs and a member of Frankfort Garden Club.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Mack Noggle. Four main points were described and demonstrated in the six table settings presented by Mrs. Junk. They are first the background, which sets the style of the table, the type of room, the kind and color of wall, the occasion for the dinner. It may be a formal dinner, a semi-formal or an informal type of meal. The second point stressed was the appointments used. They included the china, crystal, silver and linens. The third important consideration for a table setting is the floral arrangement and last, but not least, the menu.

All of these points correlated in color, texture and spirit were demonstrated by Mrs. Junk as she assembled the table settings complete with all the mentioned appointments and flower arrangements using daffodils and magnolias, red bud and wisteria vine.

To all these necessities add the spirit of hospitality. Mrs. Junk remarked Homemakers should be on the alert for new ideas and strive for simplicity with a flair.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. James Irwin, president. She announced that Pickaway County Garden Club is observing its thirty-fifth anniversary this year. The names of all the members attending the first meeting were read as recorded by the first secretary, Mrs. John H. Dunlap. There are four of the original organizers still members today. The four, Mrs. Irene Reichelderfer, Mrs. Turner Pontius, Mrs. James Moffitt and Mrs. Frank Bennett were honored and presented small flower pots containing philadelphian and star flowers.

Mrs. Irwin introduced two guests, Mrs. J. D. Briggs of Frankfort Garden Club and Mrs. Harold Pontius of Circleville.

Mrs. Junk announced that Mrs. Reginald Blue of 83 E. Fourth St., Chillicothe, invited all the members to visit her garden to view her display of most unusual daffodils which are at their peak of perfection this week.

Mrs. G. G. Campbell, secretary, asked that all members observe a moment of silent prayer for a former member, Mrs. L. E. Foreman.

Mrs. Irwin announced the appointment of the nominating committee, Mrs. Charles Pugsley, Mrs. Turney Pontius and Mrs. Richard Jones.

The Garden Club of Ohio Annual Convention will be held April 23 and 24, at the Sheraton-Dayton at Dayton. Mrs. Irwin will attend as a delegate.

The Spring Regional Meeting of the Columbus Council of Garden Clubs of Ohio will be Wednesday, May 22, at the Arlington Arms. The featured flower arrangement demonstration will be given by Mrs. Jack Blome of Dayton. It is entitled "Flowers: Feature or Accent." Registration will be 11 a.m. with luncheon and speaker at 12 noon.

Mrs. Junk extended an invitation to all to visit the Frankfort Garden Club's Daffodil Show April 25, beginning 2 p.m. at the Concord Grange Hall.

Members voted to give a cash donation to the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District for the printing of leaflets entitled "Help Keep Our Land Beautiful."

The featured table setting of the month arranged by Mrs. C. K. Vaughn included different varieties of daffodils, red and white striped tulips and Pieris Japonica. The title was "An Easter Breakfast."

A dessert course preceded the program. Mrs. Alden Bray was chairman of the hospitality committee, assisted by Mrs. Willison Leist, Mrs. Ned Harden, Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, Mrs. H. T. Edwards, Mrs. Ed Fetherolf and Mrs. George Swapton.

Magill Circle Plans for May During Meeting

Magill Circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met in the church parlor Monday evening.

Following a hymn of the cross, Mrs. Lucille Bostwick presented Lenten devotions.

Mrs. Marvene Turner, program leader, used the subject, "Launched Into Action" to suggest ways in which unused woman power in the community could be put to work. Such use of spare time could be felt in our local rest homes, detention centers, hospitals and among any persons known to be lonesome or in need.

Mrs. Erma Magill, circle chairman, conducted the business meeting. Dates for several events for the women of the church were announced and assignments made for Magill Circle members to share responsibilities at the May 1, Fellowship Dinner, to deliver the altar flowers to shut-ins during the month of May and to help with the June 5, breakfast which is for all circles.

Three Delicious Dishes Cooked Right by Book

By ALICE DENHOFF

We receive more than our share of cookbooks which we enjoy. Once in a while we get one that is unique both as to content and author.

Take the recent Prentice-Hall issue: "Meatless Cooking." It is a compilation of recipes by Peggen Fitzgerald. She is the distaff of the Fitzgeralds, the radio team that created the first Mr. and Mrs. radio broadcasts many years ago and who are still on the air five days a week from New York.

Peggen started out as an ace department store copy writer on the coast, then came to New York.

Has Many Talents
She is a splendid painter, a superb cook, has her busy fingers in many pies, is a guardian angel for animals large and small and indeed has as many activities as the proverbial nine lives of her many pussycat pets.

You don't have to be a dedicated vegetarian to use and enjoy her recipes. We found several that are excellent accompaniment to meat dishes, others make ideal luncheon or supper specials.

From this mother lode of vegetarian cookery, we have mined many tasty and nutritional nuggets. Number of servings per recipe is not given because it is a matter of individual choice if the dish is to be a main course or a side dish with meat or poultry.

Copestick Gets Commutation

LISBON, Ohio (AP)—Charles Leroy Copestick, 37, of East Liverpool, sentenced to die in the electric chair April 26 for the pistol slaying of his wife, has had his sentence commuted by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The jury which convicted Copestick in November 1966 did not recommend mercy, making the death sentence mandatory.

Copestick was found guilty of shooting his 19-year-old wife Rebecca Mae in June 1966. Mrs. Copestick was pregnant when she was killed.

People-on-the-Go Appreciate Bean Skillet Dinners

Swingers— young, alive, on-the-go. That's today's world. And for you, kitchen chores are fourth to sailing, painting, and water skiing. Not only is it necessary to get you into and out of the kitchen fast, but you want attractive food in the bargain. After all, what's a swinger's life without a little glamour?

As an on-the-go person feeding on-the-go people you desire hearty, nourishing energy foods. So choose a power-house of flavorful, protein-packed pork & beans with tomato sauce and solve all your meal problems.

The tender pea beans glistening with a tomato-good sauce are just waiting to be heated, served and glamorized.

Pictured here—an insti-quick supper for two to three. Green onions and bologna strips browned together join with mustard and dill pickle to spruce up this bean skillet supper. Top with sunny hard-cooked eggs and pungent colorful parsley. Toss together a quickie salad like orange and apple slices in a bed of anise and romaine to round out this efficiency meal.

BUSY-DAY BEANS

1 cup (about 4 ounces) bologna strips, 1/4-inch thick
1/2 cup sliced green onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (1 pound) pork & beans with tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chopped dill pickle
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Sliced hard-cooked egg
Chopped parsley

In saucepan, brown bologna and cook onion in butter until tender. Add beans, pickle, and mustard. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with egg; sprinkle with parsley. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Magill Circle Plans for May During Meeting

Magill Circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met in the church parlor Monday evening.

Following a hymn of the cross, Mrs. Lucille Bostwick presented Lenten devotions.

Mrs. Marvene Turner, program leader, used the subject, "Launched Into Action" to suggest ways in which unused woman power in the community could be put to work. Such use of spare time could be felt in our local rest homes, detention centers, hospitals and among any persons known to be lonesome or in need.

Mrs. Erma Magill, circle chairman, conducted the business meeting. Dates for several events for the women of the church were announced and assignments made for Magill Circle members to share responsibilities at the May 1 Fellowship Dinner, to deliver the altar flowers to shut-ins during the month of May and to help with the June 5, breakfast which is for all circles.

Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Bostwick served a dessert course. Easter basket prizes were won by Mrs. Louise Spain and Mrs. Helen Wachs during contest luncheon.

Three Delicious Dishes Cooked Right by Book

By ALICE DENHOFF

We receive more than our share of cookbooks which we enjoy. Once in a while we get one that is unique both as to content and author.

Take the recent Prentice-Hall issue: "Meatless Cooking." It is a compilation of recipes by Pegeen Fitzgerald. She is the distaff of the Fitzgeralds, the radio team that created the first Mr. and Mrs. radio broadcasts many years ago and who are still on the air five days a week from New York.

Pegeen started out as an ace department store copy writer on the coast, then came to New York.

Has Many Talents

She is a splendid painter, a superb cook, has her busy fingers in many pies, is a guardian angel for animals large and small and indeed has as many activities as the proverbial nine lives of her many pussycat pets.

You don't have to be a dedicated vegetarian to use and enjoy her recipes. We found several that are excellent accompaniment to meat dishes, others make ideal luncheon or supper specials.

From this mother lode of vegetarian cookery, we have mined many tasty and nutritional nuggets. Number of servings per recipe is not given because it is a matter of individual choice if the dish is to be a main course or a side dish with meat or poultry.

Copestick Gets Commutation

LISBON, Ohio (AP)—Charles Leroy Copestick, 37, of East Liverpool, sentenced to die in the electric chair April 26 for the pistol slaying of his wife, has had his sentence commuted by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Common Pleas Court Judge Carl Stacey said Wednesday he had been notified by the governor's office in Columbus that the death sentence would not be carried out.

The jury which convicted Copestick in November 1966 did not recommend mercy, making the death sentence mandatory.

Copestick was found guilty of shooting his 19-year-old wife Rebecca Mae in June 1966. Mrs. Copestick was pregnant when she was killed.

Dear Abby: Voice of Experience Tells It Like It Is

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I teach a class in our high school called "Preparation For Living."

Four years ago, a student brought an item from your column to class. We discussed it, and later it was posted on the bulletin board. Many students copied it.

Abby, teachers and mothers can talk themselves blue in the face, but no one can get thru to young people like "one of their own" who has lived thru the experience and learned from it.

The letter I refer to was signed "A SORRY SAILOR" and told the sad story of what can happen when teen-agers indulge in sex. I am enclosing that letter with the hope that you will run it again. Thank you.

M.J.E.
DEAR ABBY: Over the years I have often wanted to give you a piece of my mind about your old-fashioned attitude towards sex and teen-agers. However, I now know that you were right and I only wish I had listened to you.

A year ago, while still in high school, I started dating a girl two years younger than I. We fell head over heels in love. Out parents were friends and were overjoyed. They gave us complete freedom. When I would go to her house, her folks would go to be early so we could be alone. At first we just cuddled on the couch and watched TV.

It was wonderful. We were together, alone, sometimes as often as six nights a week. We started necking a little, and then all the time. I started getting a little fresh, and she resisted, but she finally gave in from fear of losing me.

Anyway, one thing led to another, and before we knew it, we had gone too far.

We started feeling guilty about what we were doing, but we consoled ourselves that we were "in love," that as soon as she was out of school we'd be married—so what difference did it make? One night we had a terrible argument, and although it had nothing to do with sex, I know it would never have happened if we had behaved ourselves.

Anyway, she hit me and I hit her back. I have never forgiven myself for that and I don't believe I ever will. She went running home, and told her mother EVERYTHING that had happened between us. You can imagine what happened after that.

I was going to college at the time. I couldn't keep my mind on my studies. I just wanted to lie down and die. Finally I knew I was flunking out, so I quit college and joined the Navy.

I saw her on the street just once before I left for basic training. She cried and told me she still felt the same about me and was sorry for what she had done, but it was too late then. Her parents had refused to let her see me. Four months ago I was in college and I had the girl I loved.

Pure-Blooded Hawaiians Vanishing from 50th State

By RON STATON
Associated Press Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — The pure-blooded Hawaiian is rapidly vanishing from the 50th state. But intermarriage with other island ethnic groups has resulted in the part-Hawaiian being one of the state's fastest growing groups.

The 1960 census shows more than 10,000 full-blooded Hawaiians, but state statistician Robert Schmidt says it is "highly questionable whether many people claiming full Hawaiian blood are indeed unmixed."

Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians now make up slightly more than 18 per cent of the state's population. As of July 2, 1967, Hawaii's population was estimated at 674,315, excluding U.S. servicemen and their dependents.

Besides intermarriage, the disappearance of the pure Hawaiian can be attributed to disease in the early missionary days, and a high out-migration in more recent times. Of the 85,000 Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians at the time of the 1950 census, more than 20,000 were living on the mainland by 1960.

Schmidt points out that for every Caucasian that leaves the islands, another Caucasian arrives from the mainland. But when the Hawaiian leaves, there is no in-migration to balance the statistics.

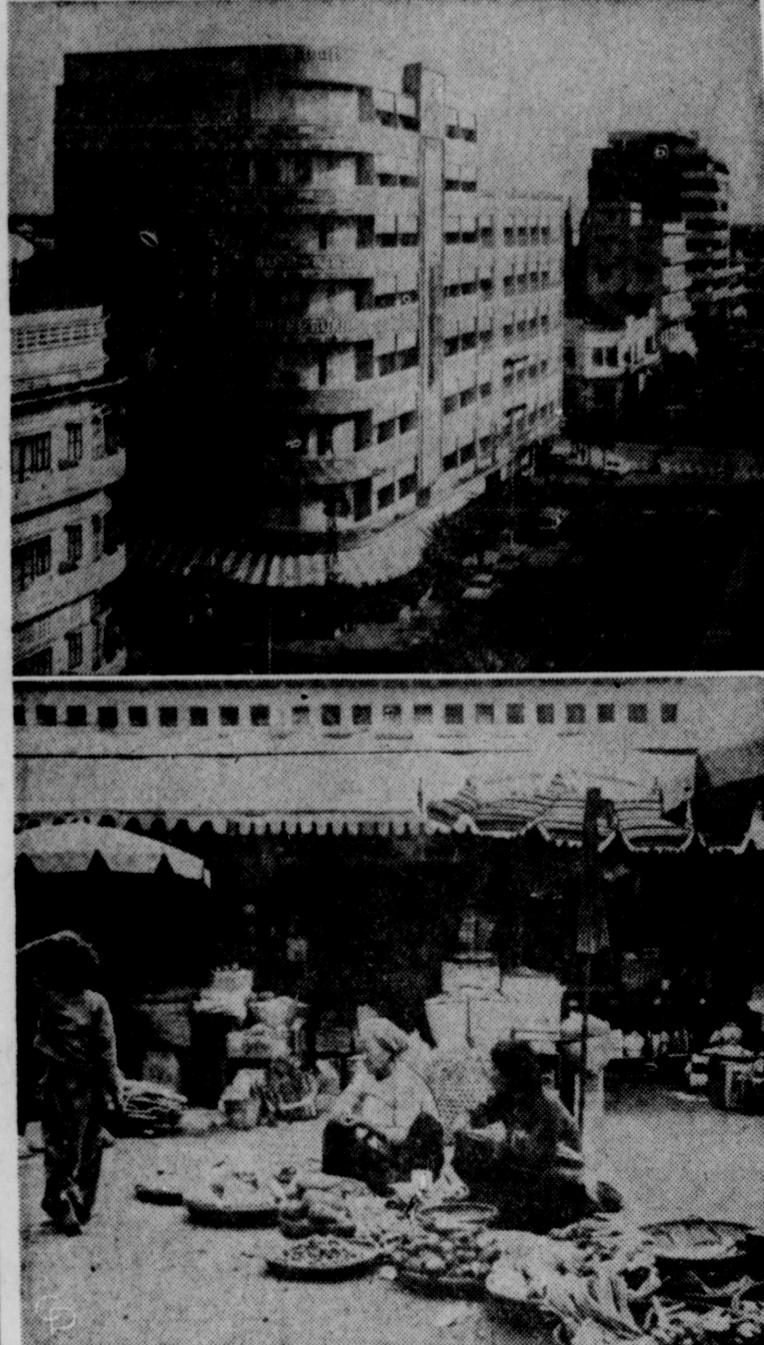

One simple explanation of the demise of the Hawaiians is that they gave while the others got. When the other ethnic groups came to Hawaii, they took advantage of the opportunities. Meanwhile, the Hawaiians gave so completely of themselves and continued living in their care-free, unhurried manner that they found themselves economically on the bottom among the various groups. This led to a breakdown in family life and resulting social disorganization. Hawaiians have the highest crime rate among the ethnic groups, and also a high illegitimacy rate.

Various programs have been set up to help the Hawaiians, including the Hawaiian Homes Commission Act, passed by Congress in 1920, establishing housing tracts where persons of Hawaiian or part-Hawaiian ancestry can live practically rent free. The state has also provided means of assistance, including a recent program to provide loans to these people for buying their own homes and for education of Hawaiian youth.

Some critics see such programs as a paternalistic effort making the Hawaiians dependent upon others. They equate the Hawaiian Homes lands with American Indian reservations, and say this is making the Hawaiian a second-class citizen in his own native land.

Along with the demise of the pure-blooded Hawaiian is a decline in interest in authentic Hawaiian culture. Hawaiian cultural interest now is usually limited to hula dancing and Hawaiian songs.

Delaware Publisher Dies at 88

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Walter Dunlap Thomson, 88, publisher of the 150-year-old Delaware Gazette, died in Jane M. Case Hospital Wednesday morning.

Thomson was the third generation of his family to publish the newspaper and had been with the paper for 68 years. The family has published the newspaper 134 of its 150 years, and is believed to be the oldest father-to-son newspaper in the nation.

A son, Henry Clay "Hank" Thomson II, is general manager of the newspaper and also is president of the Little Brown Jug Association which conducts the harness racing classic annually here.

Besides the son, Thomson leaves two daughters, Mrs. Edward S. Noland and Mrs. George R. Staten, both of Columbus.

Bettsville Church Blaze Is Probed

FOSTORIA, Ohio (AP)—The Mount Pleasant Missionary Baptist Church at Bettsville, about six miles east of here, was partially destroyed by fire early today.

The church was taken over recently by a Negro group in Fostoria.

Police said a Columbus arson investigator had been called to determine cause of the blaze.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started in the sanctuary, where robes were stored.

No estimate of damage was given.

Newsman Finds North Vietnam Doubting, Hopeful on Peace

By BILL BAGGS
Editor of The Miami News
(Copyright 1968, The Miami News)

Hanoi, North Vietnam (Delayed) (AP) — Vu Quoc Thanh was a man whose emotions were mixed. Doubts bumped against hopes inside Mr. Thanh. The doubts appeared to have the edge.

Two days earlier, he had heard that President Johnson had proclaimed that the United States was going to confine its bombing of his country to a shallow strip of land just north of the demilitarized zone.

Now, as the hard-sprung Russian version of a U.S. Army command car bumped south from Hanoi, out into the provinces but still very far north of the demilitarized zone, Mr. Thanh occasionally remarked that the news from Washington was very good news. But more frequently he scanned the murky skies for any sign of a U.S. plane.

On the outskirts of Nam Dinh, the third largest city of North Vietnam, located 56 miles south of Hanoi, Mr. Thanh heard the faint cry of the alert. American aircraft were in the neighborhood.

Mr. Thanh had been assigned as our escort by his government, and he seemed to treat the matter as a deeply personal responsibility. The other American in the command car was Harry Ashmore, former editor of the Arkansas Gazette and now executive vice president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. Ashmore, who was an infantryman in World War II, wanted to continue on into the heart of Nam Dinh...air alert or whatever. Mr. Thanh, however, insisted that we divert to a farmhouse he knew, some distance from the city and, he said, a safer place than Nam Dinh.

No bombs were dropped on Nam Dinh that day, but twice the sirens sounded and there were planes circling in the murky sky overhead.

The general reaction in Hanoi to the presidential pronouncement suggested a similar composition of doubt and hope. Word of the Johnson speech reached here on Monday morning, April 1, Hanoi time, by way of foreign radio broadcasts, but only the more informed persons knew of it. Hanoi's newspapers and radio, controlled by the government, chose not to announce the new restricted bombing policy until Thursday morning, April 4.

When the word finally came out over the loudspeakers, Ashmore and I winnowed along the streets to watch the faces as the announcement was made. The faces didn't change expression. To the people on the streets, the news they were hearing was a maybe proposition.

Their doubts were compounded during the next two days. Hoang Tung, editor of Nham Dan, the official newspaper here, gave me a list of 12 bombing raids far north of the demilitarized zone. Some were 219 miles above the line. These attacks later were confirmed by U.S. embassy persons in Laos.

The North Vietnamese, whatever else they are, strike a visiting Westerner as practical people. They did not demur at the suggestion that perhaps these overshot aerial raids were part of the inevitable draining away of a bombing policy more than three years old. They understood that a little time was required to inform the bombardiers and enforce the new policy of restraint. The North Vietnamese accepted these possibilities; again, their attitude was one of hoping and doubting.

It is not difficult to understand the doubts that the policy of the U.S. has changed. These people have lived under American bombs and the threats of bombs since February, 1965, when the aerial attack on North Vietnam began.

This reporter was made privy to the environment when he arrived in Hanoi on a Friday evening, March 29. We reached the Thong Nhat hotel at 8:30 p.m., and the air raid siren sounded 10 minutes later. Everyone was asked to go to the hotel's shelter, a long and narrow chamber of concrete, partially submerged, lighted by candles and flashlights and populated by hotel guests from the Soviet Union, various eastern European countries, Africa and Asia.

The next raid caught the writer stumbling down the dark corridor of the hotel, trying to find the stairway, when bombs fell just beyond the near limits of the city. The windows of an old hotel rattled, and flashes of bombs and return fire illuminated the distance.

The Thong Nhat must be the world's most unusual hotel these days. The chambermaids double as riflemen, and try to shoot down the visiting American planes. These are petite young women, who seem frail in their white blouses and black trousers, walking in a kind of child-like skip. But comes the air raid and they suddenly appear beneath olive drab army helmets with rifles slung across their slender backs.

Women appear in other places on the North Vietnamese landscape as adjuncts to the established military. Girls who must go to school by day serve as traffic cops by night on the new pontoon bridge across the Red River.

The girls assume a role quite necessary in North Vietnam. This is a totally mobilized society. The population is 17,000,000 at war against a nation of 200,000,000. A slogan you hear often is that everyone must do the work of two persons. A girl on the bridge releases a man for more traditional military duty. There is a certain pride as the people here explain their double duty.

However, much of the talk impresses a visitor as a kind of necessary national bragging. These people need to be convinced that they have held off the greatest military power on earth, the United States, and can continue to do so, come what may.

They shrug off reality with simple pride when you suggest that your country could level their lovely capital city of Hanoi in a single day if our strategists decided on such a policy. Their response is that the U.S. has bombed them for three years, has caused some inconvenience, and killed some of their dear ones, but that life goes on, and it goes on much as it did before, as they phrase it, Lyndon Johnson started the bombing.

Find 829 Viet Red Bodies Near Khe Sanh Perimeter

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. government sources say American military patrols probing out from the once-besieged Khe Sanh base have found more than 800 North Vietnamese bodies, most of them unburied.

The sources cited this as an indicator of how badly the Communist troops who once surrounded the outpost suffered from U.S. artillery and air bombing.

They said the 829 bodies found since April 1 represent a preliminary count and that they expect a much higher total after U.S. forces comb the mountainous area.

Many bodies were in mass graves but most were unburied. This was interpreted by the government sources as a sign the Communists suffered a command breakdown and possibly morale problems toward the end of the more than two month siege, which was lifted last week.

Military officials disputed the view, expressed in some diplomatic quarters, that the North Vietnamese voluntarily lifted the siege to emphasize Hanoi's willingness to talk peace. "He was hurt," said one senior military officer of the enemy. The officer contended the Communists were forced by heavy U.S. firepower to give up the siege.

Officials estimate there are up to 7,000 Communist troops in the Khe Sanh area, compared with an estimated high of 20,000 at the height of the siege.

Authorities said U.S. loss statistics disprove the claims of some critics who contend Khe Sanh was too costly in men and materials for the United States to hold.

It was said that losses for the entire campaign which included the Khe Sanh siege totaled 204 Marines killed and 1,500 wounded, with half the wounded requiring hospitalization.

Senate Nixes House Bill; Want Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has served emphatic notice it wants money to provide summer jobs for needy youths and preschool aid for slum children.

Acting in the wake of civil disorders that lashed many cities — and heeding a member's call for a memorial to Dr. Martin Luther King — the Senate rejected 54 to 24 Wednesday a supplemental money bill from which the House had stripped funds for these programs.

The bipartisan vote, which found 34 Democrats and 20 Republicans aligned to send the bill back to conference with the House, represented a rare revolt against the recommendations of veteran Senate Appropriations Committee members.

Key items in the Senate-House dispute are $75 million for the summer jobs, $25 million for the preschool Head Start program and $91 million for a program of federal aid to school districts with enrollments swollen by children of military personnel and federal employees.

The House had allowed nothing for the jobs or for Head Start and only $21 million for the so-called impacted areas program.

Charge 3 With Murder Of Teacher

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police have charged three Negro young men with first-degree murder and two juveniles with assault with a deadly weapon in the beating and fatal stabbing of an art instructor during Monday night's rioting.

The arrests came Wednesday as city officials ended a nighttime curfew for the city and the State Liquor Department removed a liquor sales ban. The adults were held without bond, the juveniles were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Noel Wright, 30, a graduate assistant at the University of Cincinnati, was slain by a group of Negroes as he and his wife 28, drove in the Mount Auburn section.

The murder charges were lodged against Eugene Callo-way, 20; Terry A. Ware, 18; and T. Edward Lewis, 22, all Cincinnatians.

Wright's death was one of two attributed to the rioting which erupted in Avondale. Damages in the city due to rioting were estimated at $500,000. About 200 persons were arrested.

Police and 1,400 National Guardsmen continued their patrols through the city although the city was calm late Wednesday.

Cleveland Man Held in Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steve Zehar, 34, was charged with second-degree murder Wednesday in the fatal shooting of Mary Reynolds, who had come to the home of Zehar's estranged wife to fix her hair.

Police said Mrs. Reynolds, 36, was shot when Zehar came to the back door of his home and fired once at his wife. The shot hit Mrs. Reynolds instead.

Pindling Wins Bahamas Election

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — A landslide election victory gave Premier Lyndon O. Pindling complete power over the Bahamas Islands Thursday and left the old white ruling structure of this British colony in ruins.

In a flush of black nationalism, the Negroes went to the polls in record numbers and the 38-year-old premier, a Negro, who had ruled by a one vote margin in the House of Assembly, suddenly found himself in control of 29 of the 38 seats.

The triumph in Wednesday's election became even more one sided when a Labor party member and an independent who had joined in a coalition with Pindling also were swept back into office.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — 983-7831

Mr. Richard Cook returned to his home Saturday from Mercy Hospital where he had undergone surgery on Monday, April 1.

The Pythian Sisters of Ashville Temple No. 366 will meet in the K of P Hall Tuesday, April 16, for their regular meeting. Inspection of the Temple will be held at this time with Grand Chief Marie Woesner of Bowling Green as the inspecting officer. All members of the Temple are urged to attend and are asked to bring a salad or sandwiches.

The EUB Church will have Communion Services on Thursday evening at 7:15 p.m. The Christian Women's Circle will meet in the church basement following the services.

Mrs. Malcolm (Dorothy) Rathburn entered Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus on Saturday. At the present time she is undergoing tests and observation.

Mr. John Yeatts, parole officer of Pickaway and Fairfield Counties, was the guest speaker at the April 2, meeting of the local Kiwanis Club. His remarks concerned the parolees and their problems. One statement made by Mr. Yeatts was that 70 per cent or more of the crimes committed are done so while under the influence of alcohol. He also stated that religion plays a very large part in keeping men out of prison. Topless Girls, Rice Wine Fail To Faze U.S. Soldier

By GEORGE C. McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

PLEI BONG BAO, Vietnam (AP) — In a village where the girls go topless and rice wine flows like soda pop, it's hard for an Army sergeant to keep his mind on his job.

It can be done, however, and Sgt. Gaddie Vega Figueroa, a tough and stocky Puerto Rican veteran with a happy grin and an iron stomach, carries the burden gladly.

The career soldier, 35, is America's personal representative and general factotum in the tribal Montagnard village of Plei Bong Bao. He is doctor, lawyer, handyman and drinking companion to the villagers. He readily handles it all but admits that his enthusiasm for rice wine is luckily less pronounced than that of his hosts.

The sergeant and the tribesmen communicate in a mixture of English, Spanish, Vietnamese and the tribal dialect.

There is little in the military handbooks to cover the sergeant's job under the Army's civic action program. Nobody ever spelled out how the program could be applied among simple tribesmen uprooted from a jungle life and resettled haphazardly fear the sprawling military complex dominating Pleiku in the central highlands.

A year ago Vega Figueroa was assigned to the job from the 573rd Supply and Service Company which had sort of adopted the village. He had already spent a year in Vietnam and extended his tour. Now he has extended again.

"I like the job and I like these people," the sergeant explains. "I don't want the Communists to get this village."

"I don't interfere with Vega so long as everything goes all right," says his company commander, Capt. Robert Schaller of Rumford, R.I. "He lets me know what is going on and we give him all the help we can."

In a year, the sergeant and the captain have talked the Vietnamese authorities into expanding the village's farmland, paid the wages for a teacher, built a small school, taught the villagers the rudiments of truck farming, dug wells, gave inoculations, virtually eliminated skin diseases and performed a myriad of lesser tasks.

Some money and support have come from the Army, and some from soldiers' families, like Vega's wife in Brooklyn, N.Y. Most have been from pay-day contributions chipped in by the drivers, mechanics, officers and noncoms of the 573rd Supply and Service Company.

Army Sergeant Is CBMC Speaker

Sgt. Griggs of Fort Hayes Army Post in Columbus will be the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the local chapter of Christian Business Men's Committee International at Noel's East Restaurant 6:45 a.m. Saturday.

Griggs is stationed at Fort Hayes and his duties involve processing new inductees into the U.S. Army.

The local chairman, Charles Weisman, announced that guests will be welcomed to attend the meeting.

Gilligan Speaks To Union Men

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — Democratic Senate contender John J. Gilligan warned some 1,000 union members and supporters Wednesday night that Dr. Martin Luther King's battle in Memphis was theirs too.

"All Martin Luther King wanted was to get his people under the umbrella of the union movement," Gilligan told the biggest audience of his campaign at a $10-a-head labor participation dinner.

THE COUP DE GRACE is administered to Lt. Nguyen Van Phuc following his firing squad execution before some 1,000 persons in Saigon. The army payroll clerk was convicted of embezzling two million piasters—$160,000.

NEW APPROACH — Russ Whaley (left) is digging the concrete from the driveway of the Circleville Fire Department to prepare a new and less sloping approach to the garage. Watching Whaley are, from the left, Lt. Fred Howell, Martin Garner and Ray Speakman. One side of the approach is being completed at a time so trucks will have an outlet in case of emergency.

Wessner Trial Enters 2nd Day

CINCINNATI (AP) — The trial of James W. Wessner, a Blanche native charged with failure to report for induction into the Armed Forces, enters its second day today. Wednesday session was marred by noise from about 50 sympathizers.

A jury was scheduled to hear today's round-based on charges of failure to report. Wednesday's hearing was on the issue of whether Wessner was classified properly by his draft board in Wilmington.

Wessner, who claimed to be planning graduate work at the University of California, refused induction last Dec. 5.

U. S. District Judge David S. Porter ordered courtroom doors locked Wednesday after sympathizers outside interrupted proceedings.

Mary Lewis, clerk of the Selective Service Board at Wilmington, said Wessner twice was reclassified from 1-A to 2-S while he completed his studies at Harvard. He was classified 1-A after he informed the board of plans to do graduate work, she said.

Rose Planting Time Is Here

New is an excellent time to plant roses in most parts of the country. The plants which have been in air conditioned storage are still fresh and full of vigor, the weather is warming up, yet the weather is still cool. Thus, the plants are encouraged to build up good root systems—if the soil's properly prepared for them—while the cool weather holds the tops back.

But, what kind to plant? For most people this means the floribunda and hybrid teas. Both are everblooming; produce attractive, shapely flowers; and grow on moderate-sized plants. The major difference between the two groups is that the hybrid teas are more inclined to produce single, specimen blooms whereas the other group are more likely to be cluster-flowered. Polyanthas are still more cluster-flowered.

Then, of course, there are the climbers. Today nearly all are

2 Negroes Held In Mass Kidnap

FRANKLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Two Negroes were held on charges of kidnaping by detaining and seizure in the detention of a Franklin County school bus with 31 students aboard.

Police said Mrs. Ester Perry, 35, and Eddie Junius Parker, 19, both of Franklinton, boarded the bus Tuesday morning and told the nine Negro pupils on board to get out because the pupils were not showing the proper respect for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by going to school.

everblooming or nearly so. For connoisseurs there are the shrub season and the species and old fashioned types of iron-clad hardiness. These include the hybrid perpetuals which bloom intermittently throughout the season and the species and old historical types. Lastly are the miniatures — little ever-blooming beauties usually 6 to 10 inches tall, for edgings, pot plants, low beds, etc.

Planting is done only once and lasts many years. For most gardeners this means preparing the soil a full green thumb spade depth—or as deep as necessary to get all the roots in comfortably—and mixing in at least a 2-inch layer of compost and some slow-acting fertilizer like dried cow manure, a quart to a plant.

FOR better results prepare the soil for some of your plants by digging out the whole bed, not just individual holes. Dig the top shovel depth out and pile it to one side. Then dig down and prepare the soil in the bottom as you do any garden soil with humus, plant food, etc. another full spade deep.

Next improve the top layer you removed in the same way and return it to the hole. Settle the bed by watering it well, leave it set a week, then plant your roses.

You will find your roses in this double-deep soil will be twice as good as the others. It's work but you can prepare a small piece of your bed this way every year until it is all remade.

In either case spread the roots out carefully, water well and bank the soil up around the plants 6 to 8 inches high until growth is well started. Then hoe it back down and rake the bed evenly.

This valuable gardening advice comes from the horticulturists of the Union Fork and Hoe Company, Columbus.

Garden Gossip and Helpful Hints

By MRS. E. P. HANSON
'The Lady by the Lake'

The feeling of frustration is being felt by so many gardeners for the third spring in a row. Cold weather, frost and ice has either set back or browned the new buds that are now forming.

Garden Club members and interested parties shouldn't forget the Rose Breakfast on June 7. The Robtown Church is the place. Hosting the annual affair is the Sologna Garden Club. Schedules will be out in a week or two.

One of the most exquisite spring flowers is the Lily of the Valley (Convallaria Majalis), found growing wild hundreds of years ago in Europe and Asia. It was later found in the New World in the high mountains of Virginia and South Carolina.

Magnolia trees both large and small were in bloom just in time for the frost to nip the edges, adding a brown hue. There were lots of them protected by buildings and other shrubs and were not hurt.

Most of the trees are in the last stages of opening and the fruit trees are clouds of fragrance and color. Flowering trees in Circleville are a beautiful sight to behold.

A specimen of Magnolia (Soulangeana) on Northridge Road is a mass of bloom. Across the street on Northridge at the Carl Leist home a Weeping Cherry tree is in full bloom. Mrs. Leist told me it really flowers out heavy every other year and this is the year for lots of bloom.

The Barnhart Magnolia tree aroused my interest to no end. I had to get my new reference book, a gift from Mrs. Richard

Jones, and find out all I could about this particular type of tree. The common name for it is Saucer Magnolia and it is one of the most spectacular of the flowering trees. The whole tree is covered in May (Barnhart's is blooming early) with lavender, cup shaped blossoms. The bark is light grey and smooth, the rich foliage is a medium green. The tree is remarkably free from disease, and usually lives for many years. It thrives extremely well under city conditions. It will grow 30 feet high or more.

My new book is by James and Louise Bush-Brown: "America's Garden Book." It has been newly revised and illustrated with photographs, drawings, diagrams and maps.

As I go back and forth from the lake into town the whine of the motors of tractors plowing and discing fills the air with definite signs of spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield took your garden editor to the Monrovia Garden Club meeting the first of April, held at the rural home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss. The Hatfields took us as a mythical trip via slides to the Longwood Gardens in Kennett Square, Pa.

The Monrovia's are planning on hiring a bus early in the summer to go over to the Longwood Gardens and if you would like to share the trip to see the gardens contact Mrs. Ralph (Ruby) Smith of Route 1, Ashville.

Found out when I talked to Miriam Barnhart she had planted some starts of French Pussy Willows and Cork Screw Willows from her mist bubble.

Humphrey Finds Difficulty Getting Campaign Together

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lack of funds and the difficulty of putting together a national organization from scratch apparently is delaying the entry of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey into the Democratic presidential nomination contest.

Among Humphrey's friends in Washington it is generally accepted that the vice president intends to buck Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., for the nomination.

Eugene P. Foley, former head of the Small Business Administration was said to have assured Democrats leaning toward Humphrey that the vice president will run.

Foley spoke for the Humphrey cause at a weekend meeting of Alaska Democrats in Sitka. Some leaders of the 22-vote Alaska delegation to the Democratic National Convention favor Humphrey.

Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, is to head the delegation, officially it will go to Chicago uncommitted. Bartlett has not expressed a preference among the prospective candidates. The Alaska delegation will vote as a bloc, bound by the unit rule.

A close associate said that Humphrey lacks the personal financial assets of Kennedy for financing a campaign, and it is too late for him to make a run in the presidential primaries.

This associate said that President Johnson obviously favors Humphrey over the two senators, but the President has made no concrete offer of assistance to his loyal second man.

This leaves the vice president dependent upon administration supporters of Johnson's Vietnam course for the nucleus of an organization.

In Texas, Gov. John Connally is in an open battle with Sen. Ralph Yarborough for favorite son designation from the state's 104-vote convention delegation. Presumably, Connally would like to hold the delegation for Humphrey now that his good friend, the President, has taken himself out of the race.

Humphrey's friends claim they now have won control of the Minnesota state convention which will name 20 at-large delegates of the state's 52 convention delegates. McCarthy believes he will get a substantial share of them.

But some administration supporters, such as Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, who had been counted upon to deliver heavy-vote delegations to Johnson, are taking a second look at the political situation since the President said he would not accept renomination.

Rose Planting Time Is Here

Now is an excellent time to plant roses in most parts of the country. The plants which have been in air conditioned storage are still fresh and full of vigor, the ground is warming up, yet the weather is still cool. Thus, the plants are encouraged to build up good root systems—if the soil's properly prepared for them—while the cool weather holds the tops back.

But, what kind to plant? For most people this means the floribundas and hybrid teas. Both are everblooming; produce attractive, shapely flowers; and grow on moderate-sized plants. The major difference between the two groups is that the hybrid teas are more inclined to produce single, specimen blooms whereas the other group are more likely to be cluster-flowered. Polyanthas are still more cluster-flowered.

Then, of course, there are the climbers. Today nearly all are

2 Negroes Held In Mass Kidnap

FRANKLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Two Negroes were held on charges of kidnapping by detaining and seizure in the detention of a Franklin County school bus with 31 students aboard.

Police said Mrs. Ester Perry, 35, and Eddie Junius Parker, 19, both of Franklinton, boarded the bus Tuesday morning and told the nine Negro pupils on board to get out because the pupils were not showing the proper respect for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by going to school.

Garden Gossip and Helpful Hints

By MRS. E. P. HANSON
'The Lady by the Lake'

The feeling of frustration is being felt by so many gardeners for the third spring in a row. Cold weather, frost and ice has either set back or browned the new buds that are now forming.

Garden Club members and interested parties shouldn't forget the Rose Breakfast on June 7. The Robtown Church is the place. Hosting the annual affair is the Hosloqua Garden Club. Schedules will be out in a week or two.

One of the most exquisite spring flowers is the Lily of the Valley (Convallaria Majalis), found growing wild hundreds of years ago in Europe and Asia. It was later found in the New World in the high mountains of Virginia and South Carolina.

Magnolia trees both large and small were in bloom just in time for the frost to nip the edges, adding a brown hue. There were lots of them protected by buildings and other shrubs and were not hurt.

Most of the trees are in the last stages of opening and the fruit trees are clouds of fragrance and color. Flowering trees in Circleville are a beautiful sight to behold.

A specimen of Magnolia (Soulangeana) on Northridge Road is a mass of bloom. Across the street on Northridge at the Carl Leist home a Weeping Cherry tree is in full bloom. Mrs. Leist told me it really flowers out heavy every other year and this is the year for lots of bloom.

The Barnhart Magnolia tree aroused my interest to no end. I had to get my new reference book, a gift from Mrs. Richard

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reiff and family of Marysville called on Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dreisbach and Mrs. Myrtle Gill and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray and Mrs. Altha Reichederfer Sunday afternoon.

Tuesday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Floyd and family were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Doty and Vernon of Circleville.

The Women's Guild of the Heidelberg United Church of Christ met in the social rooms at the church Thursday evening with Mrs. V. L. Courtright as hostess. The president, Mrs. Rupert Welliver, presided for the meeting and also had the program. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Roy Harden, Mrs. V. L. Courtright and Mrs. Harry Metzger attended the funeral of Mrs. Charles Mondhank in Lancaster Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. Schumann and Mrs. A. B. Wynkoop spent Wednesday in Columbus.

Mrs. Bernice Thompson of Laurelville took Mrs. Emma Fetherolf and Miss Rose Leist on a business trip to Circleville Friday afternoon.

Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Floyd and family were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Arledge of Tarlton, Mr. and Mrs. James Floyd of Massillon, Mr. and Mrs.

Jones, and find out all I could about this particular type of tree. The common name for it is Saucer Magnolia and it is one of the most spectacular of the flowering trees. The whole tree is covered in May (Barnhart's is blooming early) with lavender, cup shaped blossoms. The bark is light grey and smooth, the rich foliage is a medium green. The tree is remarkably free from disease, and usually lives for many years. It thrives extremely well under city conditions. It will grow 30 feet high or more.

Well gardeners it will not be long and the schedule for the flower show at the Pickaway County Fair will be in the mail. The theme has not been chosen at this date, but thru this column and anyone on the show board will have the information you will want. Time to plant will be upon us any day now.

My new book is by James and Louise Bush-Brown: "America's Garden Book." It has been newly revised and illustrated with photographs, drawings, diagrams and maps.

As I go back and forth from the lake into town the whine of the motors of tractors plowing and discing fills the air with definite signs of spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield took your garden editor to the Monrovia Garden Club meeting the first of April, held at the rural home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss. The Hatfields took us as a mythical trip via slides to the Longwood Gardens in Kennett Square, Pa.

The Monrovia's are planning on hiring a bus early in the summer to go over to the Longwood Gardens and if you would like to share the trip to see the gardens contact Mrs. Ralph (Ruby) Smith of Route 1, Ashville.

Found out when I talked to Miriam Barnhart she had planted some starts of French Pussy Willows and Cork Screw Willows from her mist bubble.

They were very successful in the transplanting and are rewarding her with plants in full flower at this time.

The way it was told to me is that the flower show for the fair will not be held under the grandstand, but in one of the new buildings being constructed on the front grounds. Sounds real nice. So girls and boys get ready and plant lots of flowers that can be used for arrangements and lets really give them a good show.

Those big, big red tulips around town, bordering porches and yards also brightening the country yards, is enough to make one wish they had been more ambitious this past fall. The rest of the tulips will be showing up in a few short days.

Mrs. William Weldon's Forsythia is in full bloom. The yard has numerous bushes of all heights. They form a frame for that lovely home at this time of year.

Seems as if the good neighbor policy works in many ways. Mrs. Franklin Mace Jr. (the former Elaine Goldschmidt) gave a party for Mrs. E. Paul Jones (The former Stephanie Marlon) and Mrs. E. Barnhart was the good neighbor and made the table arrangement of her Magnolias.

The arrangement for Mrs. Mace was in a tall green Japanese vase as the branches were too heavy for needlepoint. At the same time Mrs. Barnhart made another arrangement in a shell casing her son John brought home from Vietnam.

One of the gardens and yard plantings which your garden editor will report on is that of Michael Bruno who lives on Oakland Terrace in Northwood. He has planted a great many varieties and has fabulous plants so in the following weeks I will talk with them and find out their story.

Here I go on my soap box again and deliver my message on littering. Lets really make a real big effort and clean up and spruce up our streets for spring.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wynkoop and Sherry Peters visited Mrs. Charles Shupe, Charles and Carol Jean, and Mrs. Winnie Burns in Lancaster Sunday afternoon.

Costuming of the figures in the Santa Cruz tableau required a year of study. Robes' colors match those used by Da Vinci.

'The Last Supper' Renewed

BY RAYMOND LAJOIE
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

Fourteen years ago the genius of Leonardo da Vinci was re-born.

It was in 1954, after almost eight years of slow, painstaking labor, that the great master's "Last Supper" was re-unveiled in the little refectory of Santa Maria delle Grazie in Milan, Italy.

The scene was painted simply to adorn the then dining room of the Dominicans who took care of the church. But for four-and-one-half centuries since, it has delighted—and worried—art lovers from throughout the world.

Almost from the moment the masterpiece was completed in 1498 its majestic beauty began to disintegrate. Abused by both men and the elements, the colors faded and the paint flaked.

During a bombing raid in 1944 Milan was battered, the church damaged, and refectory room levelled. Milanese today consider it a miracle that the only wall left standing after the vibrations ceased was that wall in the "Cenacolo Vinciano" holding Da Vinci's genius.

After the war an Italian restoration expert, Prof. Mauro Pelliccioli, decided that something had to be done—fast. From years of intensive study, he knew a great deal about Renaissance painting techniques.

Thereafter, his stooped, white-haired figure became a familiar sight in the church, as, using only turpentine and small chisels, he went about his microscopic task of flaking and cleaning the sacred work.

Then it was finished and the Italian government accepted his work with gratitude and experts have paid it great praise.

Considered the most unique and dramatic reproduction of "The Last Supper" painting in America is the one in the galleries of the Santa Cruz Art League, Santa Cruz, Calif.

A life-size, three-dimensional work, it was created in wax. Since July 1951, when it was opened to the public, over 1.2 million persons have visited the exhibit and come away with lifted hearts.

The striking tableau was purchased by the Citizens Committee of Santa Cruz with public donations. It is on display on a completely non-commercial and non-sectarian basis and there is no admission charge. A narration is presented telling of Jesus and his disciples and explains the significance of the master-work. Soft organ music adds richness to the scene.

Bad Law Vetted
MEXICO CITY (AP) — The capital's amateur troubadours are free to serenade their seniors—ad lib, a capella or with strumming and without city sanction. With a stroke of his pen in defense of tender tradition, Mayor Alfonso Corona del Rosal struck down a proposal that would have required a de-tour to the city permit office by a serenader bound for a balcony on a romance bent. The mayor held neighbor complaints could be coped with otherwise.

Care Enough

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This note was scribbled on a blackboard in a classroom at Ohio State University: "Draft Graduate Students. Care Enough to Send the Best."

Judge Rips Statement By Gilligan

CINCINNATI (AP) — Municipal Court Judge William S. Mathews lashed out Wednesday at Councilman John J. Gilligan for criticizing penalties given curfew violators during recent city rioting.

"His (Gilligan's) actions are in poor taste, if not actually contemptuous," Judge Mathews said in a statement.

"Mr. Gilligan, who claims to have the best interests of the city at heart, is attempting to use the riot in a grasp at any straw to further his political ambitions," he said.

The council voted to turn over Gilligan's protest request to the council's Crime Prevention and Law Enforcement Committee. Gilligan's request for further study of the penalties came in a letter to the council.

Six persons were sentenced to one-year workhouse terms and $500 fines for curfew violations. Gilligan said in his letter that the defendants were convicted "after 45 to 50-second trials."

Gilligan attended court sessions after the riot curfew had been declared which barred all persons from streets except those going to or from work or undergoing emergency medical treatment.

Mathews said Gilligan came close to being arrested as a curfew violator.

Gilligan is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator against incumbent Sen. Frank J. Lausche.

Youngstown Has Quiet Night

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Police and National Guardsmen confiscated a large quantity of gasoline, bottles and firebombs in raids Wednesday night, but the city was quiet after two nights of racial disturbances.

The raids were made at a house and a tavern but locations were not disclosed. Five persons, including the tavern owner were taken into custody and held without charges.

Police said they suspected the places raided were the sources of supply for youths in making firebombs.

Commuter Air Service Slated

CLEVELAND (AP) — Service is expected to start May 1 on direct flights between downtown Cleveland and downtown Chicago.

The Chicago-based Commuter Airlines is negotiating a contract with Cleveland to operate from Burke Lakefront Airport. The 310-mile trip will take about 1½ hours in propeller-driven planes.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two and one-half hours of entertainment heavily laced with envelope opening and speeches of thanks adds up to a very long and sometimes tedious television show.

And the annual marathon program awarding motion picture Oscars was rather tedious, but as usual there were special rewards.

The ABC program Wednesday night presented the usual glittering array of Hollywood stars, the women dressed to the teeth, the men in white tie except a few in Mao jackets and beads. There was Bob Hope in shi accustomed spot with an assortment of on-target jibes, especially those about Hollywood's current output of sexy pictures. And there were, as usual, a few difficult but amusing moments when the microphones went dead.

The format of the program is to start with awards of less public interest, and wind up with the top awards. In between presentations there are film clips from nominated movies and renditions of the nominated songs—those and Hope's jokes are the entertainment.

In spite of all the effort, this season's Oscar show had a very restrained and quiet air about it. Gregory Peck, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, opened the program with a tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Surely there must be some way to shorten the entire ceremony—even clipping off a half hour would help.

Earlier in the evening, ABC presented an hour special starring Wayne Newton, a self-assured young singer whose style and mannerisms seem better gaited to nightclubs than the intimacy of television. He was the center of a rather formal TV show. There was little conversation and he presented several guests who appeared for one song in a production number and then vanished.

Newton has a pleasant voice, handles a number of different musical instruments, but the hour seemed more like an audition than TV entertainment.

CBS plans a series of special programs on the problems of the American Negro during the hot weather months when the network usual runs repeats of its Tuesday night news and documentary programs.

Bad Law Vetoed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The capital's amateur troubadours are free to serenade their seniors—ad lib, a capella or with strumming and without city sanction. With a stroke of his pen in defense of tender tradition, Mayor Alfonso Corona del Rosal struck down a proposal that would have required a detour to the city permit office by a serenader bound for a balcony on a romance bent. The mayor held neighbor complaints could be coped with otherwise.

Employment Hits Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's employment rose to a record high of 758 million in March and unemployment declined but the jobless rate for Negroes continued at more than double the rate for white workers, the Labor Department reports.

The total number of unemployed dipped by 359,000 to 2,929,000 last month, bringing the over-all unemployment rate down from 37 to 36 per cent of the civilian labor force.

About one-fifth of the total unemployed—615,000—were non-whites, mostly Negroes, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Wednesday.

While the jobless rate for Negroes dropped three-tenths of 1 per cent to 69 per cent it was still more than twice the white rate of 32 per cent, which was down one-tenth of 1 per cent from February.

Total employment rose about 100,000 to hit the new all-time high mark, the Bureau said.

Virtually all the job gains were in trades, government and service businesses.

Weekly earnings for some 45 million workers averaged $104.43, up 38 cents from February and $487 above the year earlier. The average for approximately 14 million factory workers was $120.18 per week, up 70 cents from February and $774 a week above March of 1967.

Judge Rips Statement By Gilligan

CINCINNATI (AP) — Municipal Court Judge William S. Mathews lashed out Wednesday at Councilman John J. Gilligan for criticizing penalties given curfew violators during recent city rioting.

"His (Gilligan's) actions are in poor taste, if not actually contemptuous," Judge Mathews said in a statement.

"Mr. Gilligan, who claims to have the best interests of the city at heart, is attempting to use the riot in a grasp at any straw to further his political ambitions," he said.

The council voted to turn over Gilligan's protest request to the council's Crime Prevention and Law Enforcement Committee. Gilligan's request for further study of the penalties came in a letter to the council.

Six persons were sentenced to one-year workhouse terms and $500 fines for curfew violations. Gilligan said in his letter that the defendants were convicted "after 45 to 50-second trials."

Gilligan attended court sessions after the riot curfew had been declared which barred all persons from streets except those going to or from work or undergoing emergency medical treatment.

Mathews said Gilligan came close to being arrested as a curfew violator.

Gilligan is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator against incumbent Sen. Frank J. Lausche.

Youngstown Has Quiet Night

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Police and National Guardsmen confiscated a large quantity of gasoline, bottles and firebombs in raids Wednesday night, but the city was quiet after two nights of racial disturbances.

The raids were made at a house and a tavern but locations were not disclosed. Five persons, including the tavern owner were taken into custody and held without charges.

Police said they suspected the places raided were the sources of supply for youths in making firebombs.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two and one-half hours of entertainment heavily laced with envelope opening and speeches of thanks adds up to a very long and sometimes tedious television show.

And the annual marathon program awarding motion picture Oscars was rather tedious, but as usual there were special rewards.

The ABC program Wednesday night presented the usual glittering array of Hollywood stars, the women dressed to the teeth, the men in white tie except a few in Mao jackets and beads. There was Bob Hope in his customary spot with an assortment of on-target jibes, especially those about Hollywood's current output of sexy pictures. And there were, as usual, a few difficult but amusing moments when the microphones went dead.

The format of the program is to start with awards of less public interest, and wind up with the top awards. In between presentations there are film clips from nominated movies and renditions of the nominated songs—those and Hope's jokes are the entertainment.

In spite of all the effort, this season's Oscar show had a very restrained and quiet air about it. Gregory Peck, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, opened the program with a tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Surely there must be some way to shorten the entire ceremony—even clipping off a half hour would help.

Earlier in the evening, ABC presented an hour special starring Wayne Newton, a self-assured young singer whose style and mannerisms seem better suited to nightclubs than the intimacy of television. He was the center of a rather formal TV show. There was little conversation and he presented several guests who appeared for one song in a production number and then vanished.

Newton has a pleasant voice, handles a number of different musical instruments, but the hour seemed more like an audition than TV entertainment.

CBS plans a series of special programs on the problems of the American Negro during the hot weather months when the network usual runs repeats of its Tuesday night news and documentary programs.

Tribe Shuts Out White Sox 9-0 in Opener at Chicago

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians make their home debut under Manager Alvin Dark today after setting the stage with a 9-0 shutout of the White Sox in the season opener in Chicago Wednesday.

A crowd of 20,000 to 25,000 is expected at Cleveland Stadium when Mayor Carl B. Stokes tosses out the first ball.

Then Sam McDowell will take the mound against the California Angels in a start toward his goal of a 20-victory season. The southpaw had a 13-15 mark last year for his first losing season.

McDowell's mound opponent will be Ricky Clark, a right-hander who posted a 12-11 record last season.

With the exception of McDowell, Clark is expected to face the same lineup that pounded White Sox pitchers for 13 hits, including three home runs. Sonny Siebert pitched the opener and the 30-year-old right-hander gave up just two hits in subduing the Sox.

Ahead of Siebert in the batting order were: Tommy Harper, lf; Vern Fuller, 2b; Joe Cardenal, cf; Duke Sims, c; Tony Horton, 1b; Vic Davallilo, rf; Max Alvis, 3b, and Larry Brown ss.

Sims hit two of the homers against Chicago and Alvis got the other.

Siebert, who was a 10-game winner last year while suffering recurring dizzy spells, needed just 116 pitches to beat the White Sox, striking out six and walking five. He retired the first 10 batters and the final nine in order.

He faced 31 batters, with only one getting as far as third base. The only hit off Siebert were a single by Duane Josephson leading off in the fifth inning and Ken Boyer's leadoff single in the seventh.

Sims, awarded the regular catching job by Dark to get more power in the lineup, rapped his first homer with a runner on base in the seventh off former Indian Don McMahon. He greeted Bob Priddy with his second home run leading off in the ninth.

Alvis also hit his homer in the ninth with the bases bare.

Joe Horlen, a 19-game winner last year, started for the White Sox and left after a four-run Tribe uprising in the fifth.

Mets Drop Opener To Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — At 1:10 p.m., Tom Seaver, National League rookie pitcher-of-the-year in 1967, faced San Francisco Giant second baseman Ron Hunt in the first inning of the new baseball season.

"I was confident," the New York Mets' 23-year-old right-hander calmly but dejectedly told newsmen later. "I wanted to win that game more than any I ever pitched. We never had won an opener."

At 3:15 p.m., Seaver walked slowly off the mound while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaver, watched in disappointment from behind the Mets' dugout.

He still had been confident starting the ninth Wednesday. "Only three outs and we'd win our first opener," he thought as he took the mound.

But Jim Hart's single drove home Willie Mays, who had singled, cutting the Mets' lead to 4-3. Hart was the potential tying run.

"I was tired. My legs were wobbly," said Seaver. "I didn't have many pitches left, but I felt I could stay out there if Hodges wanted me to."

Manager Gil Hodges called in Danny Frisella. Nate Oliver greeted him with a blazing single past shortstop Bud Harrelson's glove. Jesus Alou's double to left center scored Hart and Oliver for a 5-4 Giant victory.

Landis Sees Both Growth and Problems for OHSAA

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio high school commissioner sees steady and continued growth for state school boy athletics.

But he also envisions increased financial burdens that could bring a price boost for tickets to the state basketball tournament and expansion of the cage classic to three days instead of two.

"We are seriously looking at the current setup to see what we can come up with," Commissioner Paul Landis said.

The entire Ohio High School Athletic Association sports operation depends on revenue from basketball tournaments.

Registration fees charged to officials brings in some money, but not enough to be significant.

"It seems as though everyone wants more trophies and bigger bonuses," Landis reported.

Bonuses, or cash awards, are given to schools that compete in the regional or state tournaments. A school collects $200 for each regional game it plays and $300 for each state tournament.

Some coaches are pushing for a state tournament bonus as high as $1,000.

The association takes a 10 per cent cut from sectional and district meets and realizes almost 70 per cent from total receipts at the regional and state tournaments.

This year's cut alone was $92,556 out of receipts of $139,405.

Those figures, and complete receipts from district and regional tournaments, will be made public shortly.

All tickets now sell for $2 and there hasn't been a price increase in 10 years when tickets sold for $1.50.

Landis said he personally favors a two-day tournament for the state championship but at two different sites. As an illustration, he points to St. John Arena, the current site, and the Fairgrounds Coliseum at Columbus, for the Class A games, as good locations.

The fairgrounds facility generally is in use at the same time and the conflict could kill that idea.

A three-day tournament, opening Thursday, would have Class A schools playing Thursday, AA Friday with both title games on Saturday. Under one plan, there would be no double-headers, only single encounters.

"School principals generally object to a three-day tourney because the kids would be out of school two days. But they could make up the time at the end of the school year," Landis said.

A three-day meet, as advocated by many officials, coaches and sports writers, could ease the constant clamor for tickets from the schools involved and the general public.

Landis, who is optimistic about the future, sees the day when the association's 11-sports program can also include soccer and volleyball.

"I think without a doubt," he said, "interscholastic sports will continue to grow and expand with schools sponsoring a broad program."

"All boys should be given the opportunity to derive the benefits that come from sports participation."

Landis also predicts an expansion of the junior high school program and continued growth for the girls interscholastic program, but not as rapidly because of a lack of facilities.

The association's most pressing problem? Landis believes it's the OHSAA's transfer rule.

"We get more request for eligibility rulings regarding kids moving in and out of districts than anything else in the program."

Although Landis gives no hint of weariness, he already has advised the board of retirement plans. The commissioner will be stepping down in August of 1969.

"It has been a wonderful 45 years of coaching, officiating and administrative work."

"Athletics is a melting pot regardless of race, color or creed—but only by the rules."

Reds Top Cubs In Opener, 9-4

CINCINNATI (AP)—Manager Dave Bristol was in an "I told you so" mood Wednesday after his Cincinnati Reds opened the 1968 National League baseball season with a 9-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"I've been saying all spring we'd probably score some runs and I'm happy we didn't let you down," said Bristol. "I hope it's an indication of what we can do."

Some of the Reds' runs were on Cub errors but there was no taint to the home runs by Tony Perez and Tommy Helms which accounted for five Cincinnati tallies.

The blow by Perez capped off a five-run fifth inning. It helped shatter a 1-1 tie and came after a 43-minute delay because of rain.

Perez said he thought Cubs' relief pitcher Pete Mikkelsen would walk him because first base was open.

"But, he threw the firstball into the dirt and I know the next one won't be there," said Perez in his Spanish accent.

Though he didn't finish, starting pitcher and winner Milt Pappas was equally happy.

"Just think," he said, "eleven years in the big leagues and I finally got a winner on opening day."

Pappas had to give a bow to reliever George Culver, obtained from Cleveland during the off season. After taking over for Pappas with two on and one out in a four-run Chicago sixth, Culver got the side out and allowed only one hit the rest of the way.

It started out like a real-for-sure pitching battle as Pappas and Cubs' starter Joe Niekro battled through the first 4½ inning with only one scoring threat—that by Chicago.

Then the rain came and neither Pappas nor Niekro were the same after the 43-minute delay.

The Reds got to Niekro for a run in their half of the fourth, the Cubs nicked Pappas for one in their half of the fifth and then came Cincinnati's big fifth and the end of Niekro.

Singles by Pappas, Pete Rose, an error and a double by Vada Pinson accounted for three runs before Perez unloaded his home run.

Helms' two-run homer in the eighth just clinched the game.

The two clubs were to meet again this afternoon with Mel Queen of the Reds facing Ferguson Jenkins of the Cubs.

Circleville Youth Baseball Slates Registration

The Circleville Youth Baseball Program will hold its final registration 7 to 9 p. m. Friday and 10 a. m. to noon Saturday at Ted Lewis Park.

All baseball players must register to compete in the summer program. If registering for the first time, birth certificates must be provided.

Last week over 300 boys were registered in the program.

TV Little League Slates Registration

Final registration for participants in the TV Youth Baseball League will be held Saturday, at Ashville Community Park from 9 a. m. to noon.

Boys between the ages of 7 and 17 (both inclusive) are eligible. Girls 12 years of age (on or before Aug. 1) thru high school graduation are eligible.

A registration fee of $3 must be paid prior to start of season. This fee covers cost of insurance and a cap. Anyone desiring to register after April 13 will have to do so with a manager or official of the league.

Tiger Thinlies Defeated by Chillicothe

The Circleville track team was defeated by Chillicothe, 90-32, Wednesday in a dual meet on the Cavaliers oval.

The only first for the Tigers was a 42-foot 2-inch effort by Dick Thornton in the shotput.

Randy Weller was second in the shot.

Mel Smith clocked a 10:54 in the two mile run and finished second to Fred Bobo of Chillicothe. Mark Downing was third in the two-mile.

Daryl Brown ticked off a 4:49 mile effort, his best this year and was second to Steve Osbourne who paced a 4:45.4 mile.

TOM Yeatts had a 56 second 440-yard dash effort. The race was won by Chillicothe's Dan DePugh in 53.2.

Third place finishes by Chillicothe included a 106-foot heave by Weller in the discus, Yeatts in the broad jump and the 220, Bob Wilkinson in the high jump, the high hurdles and the low hurdles, Rod Sines in the pole vault.

Chillicothe won both relays. Rain which fell during the meet blotted the record sheet kept by Chillicothe and names of many of the Chillicothe runners were smudged.

Spitter Rule Nearly Upsets Mel Stottlemire

NEW YORK (AP) — The new anti-spit rule almost made Mel Stottlemire blow his cool in the New York Yankees' opener with the California Angels.

Stout was working on a 1-0 shutout in the eighth. Roger Repoz was on first with one out and Jay Johnstone, a pinch hitter, was up.

After throwing a strike to Johnstone, the Yankee pitcher walked off the mound and went to the mouth with his fingers. The first base umpire, Al Salerno, called an automatic ball under the new anti-spit rule.

Stottlemire started to argue. Manager Ralph Houk rushed out of the dugout and there was a merry scene for a couple of minutes. The Yanks announced they were finishing the game under protest. It didn't matter because they won 1-0.

Baseball Loop For Older Boys Is Proposed

A meeting has been called 7:30 p. m. Friday to form a high school aged baseball program in Pickaway County and surrounding areas.

Invitations have been sent to interested adults in Stoutsville, Laureville, Logan Elm, and other nearby school districts.

The proposed league, if formed, will operate as a separate and independent program. All interested adults are urged to attend the meeting.

Westfall Booster Directors Slate April Meeting

The directors meeting of the Westfall Booster Club will be held Wednesday at the high school.

The nominating committee will report at the meeting and an election of officers will be conducted at the general meeting in May.

The Westfall Booster Club is sponsoring a smorgasbord May 5, at the high school.

The Westfall club recently voted to purchase 15 additional band uniforms and will sponsor a band banquet in May.

Chillicothe won both relays. Rain which fell during the meet blotted the record sheet kept by Chillicothe and names of many of the Chillicothe runners were smudged.

Spitter Rule Nearly Upsets Mel Stottlemire

NEW YORK (AP) — The new anti-spit rule almost made Mel Stottlemire blow his cool in the New York Yankees' opener with the California Angels.

Stot was working on a 1-0 shutout in the eighth. Roger Repoz was on first with one out and Jay Johnstone, a pinch hitter, was up.

After throwing a strike to Johnstone, the Yankee pitcher walked off the mound and went to the mouth with his fingers. The first base umpire, Al Salerno, called an automatic ball under the new anti-spitter rule.

Stottlemire started to argue. Manager Ralph Houk rushed out of the dugout and there was a merry scene for a couple of minutes. The Yanks announced they were finishing the game under protest. It didn't matter because they won 1-0.

Reds Top Cubs In Opener, 9-4

CINCINNATI (AP)— Manager Dave Bristol was in an "I told you so" mood Wednesday after his Cincinnati Reds opened the 1968 National League baseball season with a 9-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"I've been saying all spring we'd probably score some runs and I'm happy we didn't let you down," said Bristol. "I hope it's an indication of what we can do."

Some of the Reds' runs were on Cub errors but there was no taint to the home runs by Tony Perez and Tommy Helms which accounted for five Cincinnati tallies.

The blow by Perez capped off a five-run fifth inning. It helped shatter a 1-1 tie and came after a 43-minute delay because of rain.

Perez said he thought Cubs' relief pitcher Pete Mikkelsen would walk him because first base was open.

"But, he threw the firstball into the dirt and I know the next one won't be there," said Perez in his Spanish accent.

Though he didn't finish, starting pitcher and winner Milt Pappas was equally happy.

"Just think," he said, "eleven years in the big leagues and I finally got a winner on opening day."

Pappas had to give a bow to reliever George Culver, obtained from Cleveland during the off season. After taking over for Pappas with two on and one out in a four-run Chicago sixth, Culver got the side out and allowed only one hit the rest of the way.

It started out like a real-forsure pitching battle as Pappas and Cubs' starter Joe Niekro battled through the first 4½ inning with only one scoring threat — that by Chicago.

Then the rain came and neither Pappas nor Niekro ever were the same after the 43-minute delay.

The Reds got to Niekro for a run in their half of the fourth, the Cubs nicked Pappas for one in their half of the fifth and then came Cincinnati's big fifth and the end of Niekro.

Singles by Pappas, Pete Rose, an error and a double by Vada Pinson accounted for three runs before Perez unloaded his home run.

Helms' two-run homer in the eighth just clinched the game.

The two clubs were to meet again this afternoon with Mel Queen of the Reds facing Ferguson Jenkins of the Cubs.

Warsaw May Be Talk Site

North Vietnam Makes Proposal

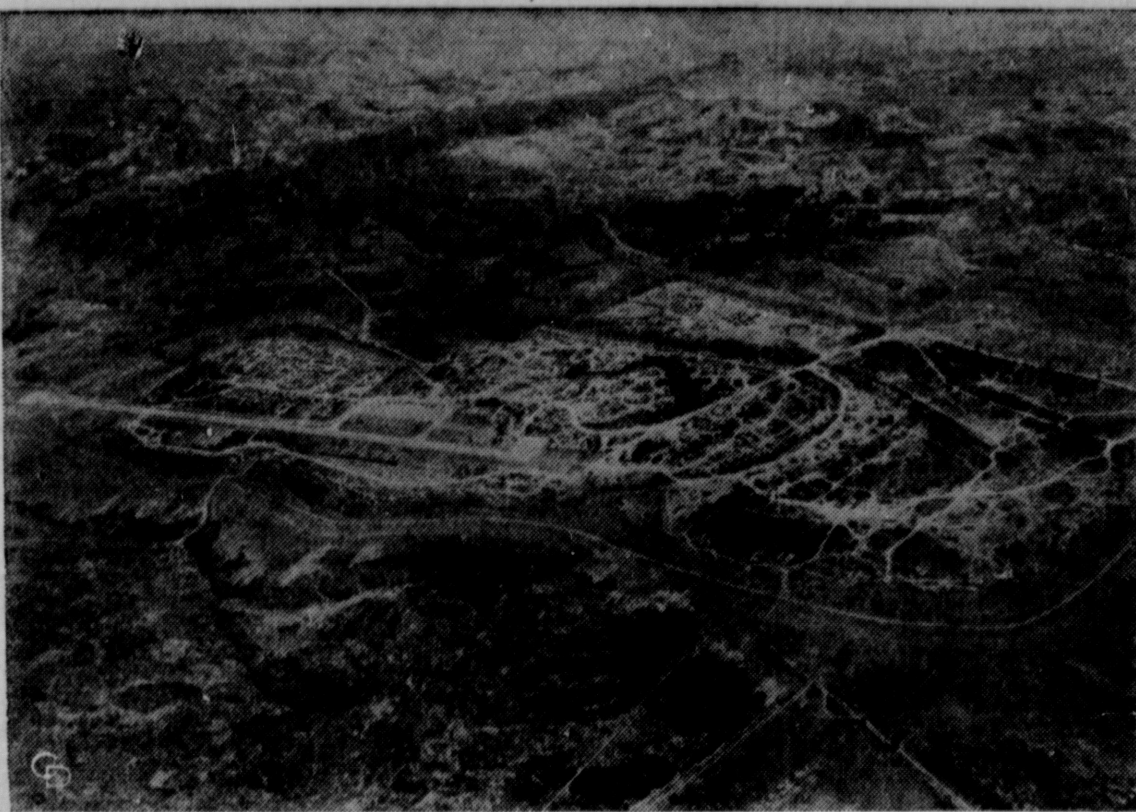

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency Tass reported today that North Vietnam has suggested Warsaw as a site for preliminary peace talks with the United States.

Tass said in a dispatch from Hanoi it had learned from reliable sources there that the North Vietnamese government had decided on the Polish capital after the United States refused its first suggestion, Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

Tass said: "It is believed in Hanoi it had learned from reliable sources that the U.S. refusal to accept Phnom Penh as the meeting place may be taken to indicate that the United States delays solution of this question."

The Soviet news agency said North Vietnam had received a reply from the United States to its suggestion of Phnom Penh and this had "voiced disagreement."

"This decision by the United States cannot but cause wonder," Tass continued. "because the United States has repeatedly expressed willingness to send its representative to any point on the globe to establish contacts with a representative of the DRV, Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

Salute Ronsheim For Public Service

CADIZ, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes joined in a salute here Wednesday to L. Milton Ronsheim as the "father of Ohio strip mine laws."

Ronsheim, retiring after 52 years as publisher-editor of the Cadiz Republican, was honored at a dinner in the Cadiz Country Club.

He is widely known for his long battle for laws to eliminate the eyesores left by coal strip miners.

2 Men Die in Mid-Air Plane Crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two men were killed Wednesday night when their small plane collided in the air with another light plane. The pilot of the second craft crash-landed, but walked away unhurt.

Berry H. Young Jr., 40, Canal Winchester, escaped injury, and authorities said he did "a remarkable job" in keeping his plane under control.

Killed were Ralph D. Bibler, 26, Baltimore, Ohio, a flight instructor; and David Dunnick, 21, Lima, a junior at Denison University. Dunnick was the pilot.

Investigators said Young, in a Beechcraft Bonanza, had clearance to land at Port Columbus Airport. The Beechcraft hit the other plane, a Piper Cherokee, in its tail section, ripping it off, Don Sundin, a spokesman for the Licking County Airport said. The Piper was owned by the Licking Airport.

The Piper immediately dropped to the ground, sheriff's deputies said. Young was able to keep his plane under control for a forced landing. The planes landed in a field about a half-mile apart.

Authorities said they had not yet learned the cause of the crash. Young told deputies he did not see the other plane.

Church Blaze Said Arson

FOSTORIA, Ohio (AP)—Fire which partially destroyed the Mount Pleasant Missionary Baptist Church at Bettsville, about six miles east of here, was caused by arson, Seneca County Sheriff Robert G. Wagner said today.

The blaze which started early Wednesday morning damaged the church's sanctuary, part of the roof and the bell tower.

Wagner said the fire started in two places but had only been burning about 10 minutes when the flames were spotted by a passing truck driver. Damage was estimated at between $5,000 to $7,000.

The church was taken over by a Negro group from Fostoria, Findlay, Tiffin and Fremont.

Pedestrian Killed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Paul Smith, 75, was taking a short cut across railroad tracks near his home on the East Side Wednesday night when he was struck by a Norfolk & Western switch engine and killed, police said.

Warsaw May Be Talk Site

North Vietnam Makes Proposal

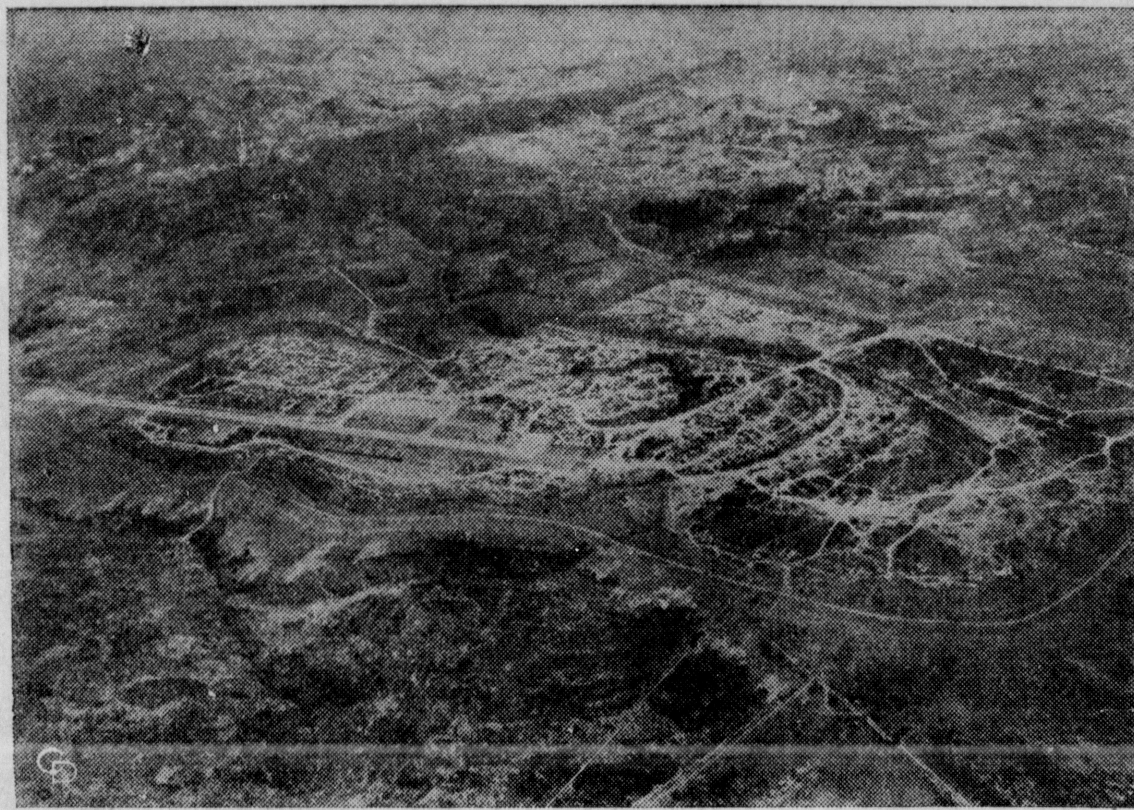

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency Tass reported today that North Vietnam has suggested Warsaw as a site for preliminary peace talks with the United States.

Tass said in a dispatch from Hanoi it had learned from reliable sources there that the North Vietnamese government had decided on the Polish capital after the United States refused its first suggestion, Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

Tass said: "It is believed in Hanoi's authoritative circles that the U.S. refusal to accept Phnom Penh as the meeting place may be taken to indicate that the United States delays solution of this question."

The Soviet news agency said North Vietnam had received a reply from the United States to its suggestion of Phnom Penh and this had "voiced disagreement."

"This decision by the United States cannot but cause wonder," Tass continued, "because the United States has repeatedly expressed willingness to send its representative to any point on the globe to establish contacts with a representative of the DRV, Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

2 Men Die In Mid-Air Plane Crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two men were killed Wednesday night when their small plane collided in the air with another light plane. The pilot of the second craft crash-landed, but walked away unhurt.

Berry H. Young Jr., 40, Canal Winchester, escaped injury, and authorities said he did "a remarkable job" in keeping his plane under control.

Killed were Ralph D. Bibler, 26, Baltimore, Ohio, a flight instructor; and David Dunnick, 21, Lima, a junior at Denison University. Dunnick was the pilot.

Investigators said Young, in a Beechcraft Bonanza, had clearance to land at Port Columbus Airport. The Beechcraft hit the other plane, a Piper Cherokee, in its tail section, ripping it off.

Don Sundin, a spokesman for the Licking County Airport said. The Piper was owned by the Licking Airport.

The Piper immediately dropped to the ground, sheriff's deputies said. Young was able to keep his plane under control for a forced landing. The planes landed in a field about a half-mile apart.

Authorities said they had not yet learned the cause of the crash. Young told deputies he did not see the other plane.

Church Blaze Said Arson

POSTORIA, Ohio (AP)—Fire which partially destroyed the Mount Pleasant Missionary Baptist Church at Bettsville, about six miles east of here, was caused by arson, Seneca County Sheriff Robert G. Wagner said today.

The blaze which started early Wednesday morning damaged the church's sanctuary, part of the roof and the bell tower.

Wagner said the fire started in two places but had only been burning about 10 minutes when the flames were spotted by a passing truck driver. Damage was estimated at between $5,000 to $7,000.

The church was taken over by a Negro group from Postoria, Findlay, Tiffin and Fremont.
